By DON GILBERT AND KIRKE L. SIMPSON

PURSUED

The German battleship Bismarck and accompanying warships, pursued by the British battle squadron of which the unlucky Hood was the leader, may seek to emulate the escape of the liner Bremen in the first days of the war and find shelter at Murmansk, the Soviet Arctic port.

Battle units of the British Home Fleet, possibly including the newly-commissioned battleships King George V and Prince of Wales, will have set their course for the waters lying between northernmost Britain and Norway in the hope of intercepting the enemy if he seeks to reach a home port by that route. Should the German ships make for Murmansk it is unlikely the Soviet government, under the Kremlin's present policy, would raise any objections. Their arrival there would not be known to the world, since the Soviet government strictly controls information from the port, and no foreigners are allowed to visit the region.

The battle of Denmark Strait took place at about the same time the Germans were claiming in Berlin that German U-boats are operating near Greenland. The Nazis claimed their submarines had sunk nine ships from a British convoy. It is possible, however, that any ships sunk from this convoy were dispatched by the Bismarck and her companion raiders, and attributed to U-boats by the Nazis in the hope of putting the British navy off the scent of the surface raiders.

The battle of Crete may not be a significant dress rehearsal for a Nazi invasion attempt against Britain, but it is a crucial and still inconclusive test of sea versus air power.

It will go down that way in military history, whatever the outcome. From its weird and confused pattern, both British and German leadership are certain to derive new experience to test their plans for invasion or defence of Britain.

Many factors are lacking at Crete that must be reckoned with in the case of Britain. One is the narrowness of the 20-odd mile Dover Strait as compared with a 60-mile sea span between Crete and the Greek mainland. Probably hasty Nazi preparation for the Crete invasion to catch British-Greek defenders more or less by surprise is another.

Britain could throw into the battle air strength that is lacking at Crete.

There is no doubt that Britain's home force of day and night air fighters as well as bombers is far stronger than it was a year ago.

Final Bulletins

Crew Escapes Crash

HALIFAX (CP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force plane was wrecked at the nearby Eastern Passage air force station this afternoon when it caught fire after a crash landing and a bomb exploded, R.C.A.F. officials announced. The crew of three escaped.

Forest Fires Ease

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP)—J. R. McDonnell, chief Ontario forester of the Thunder Bay area, this afternoon reported an improvement in the forest fire situation following general rains over a 200-mile radius in northwestern Ontario.

$21 Per Capita

LONDON (CP)—Lord Kindersley, president of the National Savings Committee, announced late today that London's War Weapons Week receipts were £120,041,000 ($534,072,450), an average of £21 for each person in the region.

Japanese Navy Talk

TOKYO (AP)—Admiral Koshiro Oikawa, Navy Minister, declared tonight "the imperial navy has a strong sense of responsibility in the face of the grave situation confronting Japan and is going through hard training day and night to live up to its glorious tradition."

MACKENZIE KING COMING TO B.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King is considering plans for a trip to the British Columbia coast probably in June, it was learned today.

Mr. King has made no final decision in the matter, it was said, but well-informed circles would not be surprised if he left for the west immediately after the ceremonies in Kingston June 7 to commemorate the death of Sir John A. Macdonald.

The trip Mr. King has in view would require about three weeks, so if he could leave around June 7 he could be back in Ottawa before the end of the month.

matter which way that battle went.

Obviously, if it falls the Axis strategy will be to dismiss the invasion attempt itself as merely a successful ruse to draw British naval strength into a trap in the narrow seas between Crete and the mainland and within range of Nazi bombers.

Failure of the first attempted major scale air invasion in history would be a heavy blow to German prestige, at home as well as abroad. It would diminish even in Germany the standing of the Hitler heir-designate, Goering, who as air commander-in-chief presumably devised and ordered the air phases of the attack.

Arrest Explained

OTTAWA (CP)—James A. Murphy of Toronto was arrested because he is believed to be a member of the Communist Party, and at the time of his arrest the R.C.M.P. had no knowledge he was carrying on negotiations for technical employees of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation with the Department of Labor, Justice Minister Lapointe told the House of Commons this afternoon.

Answering a question from M. J. Coldwell, acting C.C.F. leader, Mr. Lapointe said Murphy was alleged to have assisted in fitting up radio equipment found in a car operated by "one Parson," which was used for Communist purposes.

Menzies Praises U.S. for Aid

SYDNEY (AP)—Addressing the audience in Sydney's town hall which welcomed him home from his British and United States tour, Prime Minister Menzies said he had had the opportunity of gauging American opinion and he believed the Empire would not look vainly to the Americans. His conversations with President Roosevelt had been most stimulating. The American people wanted the Empire to win the war and would do for that cause whatever the President proposed.

In discussing American aid, especially in the Mediterranean area, Menzies said such aid could not be a decisive factor in that area during the next semester. Like every country which began the war relatively unprepared, it took a long time for production to increase and to get all wheels revolving.

"Therefore, in 1941 we must depend to all essential purposes, particularly in the Middle East, upon our own strength and resources," he said.

1941 OUTLOOK

The Prime Minister added that 1941 would be a fateful year in the Middle East, with the next six months producing anxieties, not only in the battles of Crete and Libya, but also in possible battles against the Germans in Iraq and Palestine.

FOREST FIRE FRONT CLEAR IN B.C.

Despite the warm week-end, B.C. forestry officials were able to report "all clear" on the forest fire front today while thousands of firefighters battled flames in eastern Canada. What few fires there were in B.C. were of a minor nature and easily controlled.

Bringing its statistics up to May 17 the forest branch reported 126 fires for the year, compared with 44 at the same date last year, 309 in 1939.

Fleet Engages Bismarck, Air Torpedo Hits Enemy

Canadian and Associated Press

The German battleship Bismarck and other units of a German squadron now are fighting a superior British naval squadron in the Denmark Strait between Iceland and Greenland, the Oslo radio reported tonight in a broadcast heard in New York. No details as to the outcome of the battle were given.

A short time earlier the British Admiralty announced in London the fleeing Nazi battleship had been hit by an aerial torpedo.

Telling a brief story of the long chase in the north Atlantic of the 35,000-ton Bismarck, the Admiralty said in a communique:

"The chase of the Bismarck in the Atlantic has been hotly pursued. This evening torpedo bombers of the fleet air arm have scored a hit with a torpedo on the Bismarck."

"The hunt continues."

Constant Search By Speedy Planes

Throughout the day British Swiftdish planes and speedy destroyers had searched fog-banks of the north Atlantic in a vengeance-driven effort to put a Royal Navy squadron back in battle contact with Germany's big new Bismarck and her supporting ships.

The navy's torpedo-carrying planes scored at least one hit Saturday night on the German squadron, which broke off the engagement after the 36,000-ton Bismarck had sunk the 42,100-ton battlecruiser Hood, world's largest warship, earlier that day. The Hood carried a complement of approximately 1,300.

The British Admiralty said the Bismarck was damaged during the fight and expressed hope this and the torpedo hit would slow the ship enough so it might be overtaken or headed off. There were hints powerful new units of the Royal Navy might be speeding to the scene.

No Comments On Nazi Claim

The Admiralty, silent on the direction the Nazi squadron took from the sea fight in the strait between Iceland and Greenland, at the edge of the western hemisphere, declined comment on German claims the Bismarck also had damaged and driven off a battleship of the new 35,000-ton King George V class.

(The Nazi press, making much of the report that a King George class battleship had retired from the fight, damaged, boasted this proved the superiority of Germany's new capital ships over Britain's best.

(A Nazi communique Sunday claimed German naval forces "continue their operations without losses."

(Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, declared in a leading article on the American idea of freedom of the seas that "the German fleet will bring into reality and be the guarantor, at the end of the war, for what until now has only been a misused slogan.")

British Demand Quick Vengeance

Grief over destruction of the 20-year-old Hood through an "unlucky hit" in a magazine, and clamor for vengeance through the smashing of the Bismarck and her squadron were mingled in Britain.

Expressions of hope were heard that the loss of the Hood in an action close to Greenland, protected by the United States, would bring action from the U.S. to make her Atlantic patrol increasingly effective.

Among London newspapers commenting editorially today on the loss of the Hood, the Daily Mail said:

"Spectacular and heavy though it is, this setback is but an incident in the long struggle of attrition at sea—a struggle that began with full ferocity when war was declared and which will go on without ceasing until the last shot is fired."

The Daily Express said, "The warship that sent the Hood to the bottom was brand-new from Hitler's armory. Hitler... flings his weapons into the fight—just as he flung almost his entire navy against Norway or as he now flings the very pick of German youth against Crete. He takes big risks for big gains."

Torpedo Planes Attack Quickly

Saturday evening British torpedo-planes, combining reconnaissance with action, attacked the German units of unspecified strength. These planes operate either from the decks of aircraft carriers or can be catapulted from warships. They are one of the most threatening weapons of a modern navy.

The Admiralty said that after the fatal hit on the Hood the German forces "made every effort to shake off pursuit." But the British warships apparently were close at heel, counting somewhat on damage to the Bismarck to slow her flight.

It could not be learned whether the fleeing German warships were proceeding in an eastward direction to seek the safety of Scandinavian, German or occupied French ports, or southward into the Atlantic. While nothing is known publicly of the cruising radius of the Bismarck, it was felt in naval circles here that she would soon be forced to seek a refueling base.

The Hood, accompanied by other elements of the Royal Navy, had proceeded to Denmark Strait area between Greenland and Iceland for the express purpose of engaging the Bismarck and her supporting units, which were seeking to break through into the Atlantic for raiding operations against merchant shipping.

In Plymouth and Portsmouth today loss of the Hood brought more tragedy to homes in the bomb-scarred naval towns, but the stricken populace shouldered their new burden with the brave feeling that "it's war and it's the price of admiralty"—command of the seas which Britain has never lost.

Plymouth Again Pays Tribute

Special tribute was paid the men of the Hood, most of whom were from Portsmouth, Plymouth and Devonport, during Sunday services in churches of the three towns. Congregations stood in silence and said special prayers for bereaved families.

Some Plymouth men aboard the battlecruiser had been anxiously awaiting leave to visit their wives and families who have been bombed out of their homes.

3 Victoria Boys Aboard Hood

Three Victoria boys were delivered to be aboard H.M.S. Hood when she was sunk off Greenland in the naval action with the Nazi battleship Bismarck.

They are: Midshipman T. N. K. (Norman) Beard, 23, son of Commander and Mrs. Charles T. Beard of 2408 San Carlos Avenue.

Midshipman Christopher John Birdwood Norman, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Norman, 1852 Fern Street.

Midshipman F. L. L. (Johnny) Jones, 21, son of Lieut.-Col. A. Llewellyn and Mrs. Jones, formerly of this city and now of Revelstoke, B.C.

Midshipman Beard, who was educated at Brentwood College, left Victoria at the outbreak of the war and attended Dartmouth naval college, before going to sea in H.M.S. Ajax. He was transferred from the Ajax to the Hood last April. His parents received a letter from him a week ago from England.

RELATIVE OF BIRDWOOD

Midshipman Norman, who was 19 on May 16, left here last August for Dartmouth and joined the Hood at Christmas, after spending the Yuletide holiday with his great-uncle, Field-Marshal Lord Birdwood, commander of the Australian forces in the First World War.

Young Norman was educated at Malvern House School, University School and Victoria College. He passed third in Canada in the May examinations last year for entry into the Royal Canadian Navy.

Recently he held the temporary post of assistant navigator on the Hood.

MIDSHIPMAN C. J. B. NORMAN

Sub-Lieut. Jones was born in Victoria and was a nephew of the late Dr. O. M. Jones.

Graduating from Kingston Military College last summer, young Jones visited Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Ridewood, 422 St. Charles Street, before going to England.

His father, Lieut.-Col. A. L. Jones, practiced in Victoria for some years, and was for a time M.O. of Military District No. 11, later going to Revelstoke. He is now with the R.C.A.M.C. in eastern Canada.

The family of Lieut. E. L. Borradaile of Ganges Harbor, Salt Spring Island, were awaiting word from him today in the belief that he may have left the Hood before she went to sea the last time.

Lieut. Borradaile had been serving aboard the Hood in a special capacity, but from word they received last week members of the family expressed the hope he had been transferred within the last few weeks.

His mother, Mrs. George Borradaile, lives at Ganges, and his sister, Mrs. F. R. Morris at 1126 Richardson Street, Victoria.

Don Wilson, a Victoria boy, was not on the Hood, despite rumors circulating in the city. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson of 2517 Margate Avenue, state he was on H.M.S. Renown when they last heard from him.

KILLED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lt. Thomas Ananis, 45, Toronto, a code decipherer aboard the H.M.S. Hood, was killed when the ship was sunk according to a cable received here from the British Admiralty by his sister, Mrs. Effie Burnham, Vancouver nurse.

Lt. Ananis was recalled to naval service from Chile, where he had been an engineer for five years, when the war started, Mrs. Burnham said. Before that he had served 15 years in the navy.

LEFT HOOD

CALGARY (CP)—Sub-Lieut. L. B. Jensen, 20-year-old Calgary-born naval officer, left H.M.S. Hood about six weeks before the ship was sunk.

He qualified for his sub-lieutenancy after taking a four months course on H.M.S. Hood, and was on leave in Manchester on April 17 when he last wrote to his parents, Capt. E. L. Jensen and Mrs. Jensen of Calgary.

R.A.F. Bags 24 Planes in Crete

Canadian and Associated Press

German troops penetrated British defence lines in an attack west of Canea, but New Zealand forces have counterattacked and "severe fighting is continuing" in that sector of Crete, Middle East general headquarters at Cairo said.

The Germans' strong attack followed the arrival of more airborne reinforcements, the communique said, and came under cover of an intensive air bombardment.

The Germans were said to have suffered heavy casualties.

Informed sources in London disclosed that British marines are in Crete, but declined to say whether this meant that substantial reinforcements were being landed to fight the German invaders.

The R.A.F. said in a communique issued at Cairo tonight that at least 24 planes were destroyed and others were badly damaged in new raids by British fighters and bombers against German forces on Crete.

In the attacks, staged yesterday and the previous night, the German-held Malemi airfield and adjacent fields used for landing gliders and air transports were the principal targets. Bombs falling among large concentrations of troop-carrying planes caused "great destruction and damage."

Small Tanks Landed By Enemy

According to sources in London air-borne tanks have been flown to Crete to reinforce the Nazi invasion, but they have not yet been reported in contact with the Greek island's defenders. The opinion was expressed they are small tanks, possibly no bigger than Bren gun carriers.

Several hundred German prisoners have been taken, these sources said.

The German claim to a solid hold on the western end of Crete was disputed by authoritative British reports. They said there was no information of any new Nazi attempt to make landings from the sea.

Nazis Run Short Of 'Chute Troops?

With the battle raging through its seventh day, observers in London saw hopeful signs in reports of a substantial reduction in the number of Nazi parachute and glider reinforcements and the statement of a higher officer that "I think it will be possible to hold Crete."

A Reuters news agency dispatch from Cairo said there were signs the Germans were running short of parachute troops for their invasion. What these signs were the dispatch did not say.

Over the week-end the fiercest fighting was in the northwest of the island, where British-Greek forces were reported to have followed up intensive shelling of Nazi positions at the Malemi airfield with attacks in which hand-to-hand fighting raged between Malemi and Canea, just west of Suda Bay.

Other Nazi footholds near Cania and Retimo were reported under continuing attack as the defenders attempted to smash forces landed from the air,

WHERE FIGHTING RAGES—German forces in Crete early smashed their way into Candia, above, largest town on the Greek island, according to British Prime Minister Churchill, but British have regained the town and the nearby airport.

On Sunday the R.A.F. reported sending long-range planes—some of them bombers with added armament—from north African desert airfields in an effort to fight off the Nazi aerial troop-carriers.

Difficult for Nazis

Belief the defenders could hold the island was expressed last night by Maj.-Gen. T. B. Heywood, chief of the British military mission to the Greeks, who arrived in Cairo with King George of Greece.

Gen. Heywood said the Nazis were finding it difficult to reinforce the troops they had landed and that the British and Imperial troops are showing up well in the hand-to-hand conflict.

British sources took cheer from reports that the Royal Navy had been able to prevent all but a possible few German sea-borne reinforcements from reaching the island.

Axis Claims Navy Driven Off

Axis reports claimed the Royal Navy had been driven from waters between Crete and Greece by combined efforts of the Nazi air force and the Fascist navy.

A Nazi high command communique Sunday claimed German army units already were on the island reinforcing the parachutists—but did not say in what strength or specify how they had been taken to Crete.

Nazi sources in Berlin said fighting of the hardest kind was raging on the mountainous island, whose entire western end beyond Malemi and Canea they claimed was firmly in German hands.

The German high command claimed today its air force had sunk seven "enemy" cruisers, eight destroyers, one submarine and five boats in the Mediterranean since last Tuesday.

In addition, it was claimed, one battleship and several cruisers and destroyers were "heavily damaged" by direct hits,

MORE BUSINESS URGED FOR C.N.R.

OTTAWA (CP)—Steps to ensure the Canadian National Railway system received a greater share of government-controlled business are recommended in report of the Commons standing committee on railways.

After giving figures showing the track mileage and number of employees of the Canadian National in comparison with the Canadian Pacific Railway, the committee's report, read in the House of Commons this afternoon, said:

"Your committee, therefore, recommends that steps be taken to assure a division of government-controlled business more in accord with the relative responsibility of the two roads."

The major difference in miles of track, number of employees and ratio of fixed charges would indicate the desirability for a rational division, the report said.

The report, presented in the House by J. P. Howden, Liberal, Provencher, Man., followed meetings of the railway committee last week in which members asked many questions in respect to the division of government business between the two main railway systems.

SALVAGE CORPS BUSY UP-ISLAND

Arrangements for the collection of salvage at Qualicum are progressing rapidly in the hands of Robert C. Weld, magistrate of Parksville. Through Mr. Weld's efforts depots have been established at Combs, Qualicum Beach, with a Parksville headquarters depot.

The following merchants have arranged to accept delivery for salvage: Baker's General Store, Combs; Buckfield's Ltd., Parksville; Cormack and Gibson, Qualicum; Errington Store, Errington; Knight's General Store, Combs; Nanose Co-op, Parksville; Parkville General Store, Parksville; Pickering's Butcher Shop, Parksville; Reid, Butcher, Qualicum and Parksville; Sanders the butcher, Qualicum; Wilson's store, Parksville, and Yates' Cash Store, Parksville.

Contributions from up-island will be brought down by military or Island freight trucks free of charge.

The salvage committee of Courtenay among many other things has been offered 20 tons of old truck tires. Materials are flowing into the central depot at Cloverdale Avenue in increasing volume and have included to date over 20 tons of paper which is readily saleable. Approximately 700 pounds of cast iron from old school desks were offered by Miss Edna M. Johnston of Cowichan Lake.

The committee in charge of the Salvage Corps consists of Miss Sara Spencer, Commander J. S. Hinecks (retired), S. J. D. Clark, trust officer, Royal Trust Company; O. M. Prentice, credit manager of David Spencer Ltd., and A. K. Mather, accountant, and A. H. Pease, honorary manager of the Red Cross Superfluties Store. The honorary auditor for the Salvage Corps is J. H. B. Watson, chartered accountant.

An ordnance expert says that military priorities call for airplanes first, vessels second, then machine and anti-aircraft guns and ammunition, then anti-aircraft weapons and fire control, then tanks, and finally combat cars and some large guns.

Roosevelt Drafts Strong Speech for Tomorrow Night

'Nazis Try to Shackle U.S. By Threats'—Hull

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull accused Germany today of seeking by threats to induce the United States to refrain from any real efforts at self-defence.

He made his comment on the statement yesterday of Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, commander of the German navy, that the American patrol system was "aggressive" and that American naval convoys for British ships would "mean shooting."

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, earlier had commented to reporters that he has an idea that Berlin "is trying to do anything it can to beloud" President Roosevelt's fireside chat tomorrow night (6.30 to 7 p.m. P.S.T.). Early too was commenting on Raeder's statement.

Familiar Tactics Of Hitler Gang

Hull told his press conference that Raeder's statement appeared to be some sort of threat to cause this country and probably other American nations to omit strong efforts at self-defence until Hitler gets control of the high seas of the world and other continents.

It is a favorite system which Hitler has used in the case of many countries in Europe, Hull said, either by threats or persuasion to induce other countries to hesitate until Hitler was ready to seize them.

The secretary said Raeder's statement seemed to be an integral part of a program of world conquest by force.

Other Dispatches From Berlin Expected

Early told reporters he had the impression Berlin is "trying to precipitate something for you gentlemen between now and Tuesday night."

He added he would not be surprised if reporters were querying him about other dispatches from Berlin before the presidential radio address.

The speech already had begun to take on new significance from world developments, such as Japan's seizure in French Indo-China of $10,000,000 worth of American products belonging to U.S. firms.

The address was announced to replace one Mr. Roosevelt was to have made two weeks ago, and Early had told reporters, not to build it up as of extreme importance.

But when asked today whether he thought a similar warning was warranted, he said:

"Up to yesterday I would have repeated the warning. Today I can tell you the President will be engaged throughout the day, into the night and most of tomorrow in revising his speech in the light of rapidly changing conditions abroad."

"Don't ask me to go into details because I can't. You'll get them when you get the speech."

Neutrality Act In Spotlight

Even before the week-end developments, Congress members looked to Mr. Roosevelt for an up-to-the-minute statement of U.S. foreign policy. There has been uncertainty as to the administration's future plans, particularly since the recent pronouncements of cabinet members, urging repeal of the neutrality act and "guaranteed" delivery on lease-lend shipments.

There was speculation as to whether the President would back up the demands by members of his cabinet for "affirmative steps" to aid Britain's fight against the Axis.

Considerable attention centred on the statements of Admiral Raeder, because of veiled hints Nazi raiders might act against units of the United States fleet now on patrol duty.

Describes Convoys As Open War Act

Convoys, Raeder claimed in a Berlin interview, would constitute an "open war act" and the guns of the Nazi navy would reply, if necessary.

(The interview was with Domel, Japanese news and propaganda agency, and was issued in Berlin by D.N.B., German news and propaganda agency under a Tokyo dateline.)

As for the present patrol system, Raeder maintained, "its aggressive character already has been established." President Roosevelt's attitude has been that the patrol system is operating essentially in the interests of hemisphere defence, but Raeder's sharp comments led to belief the Nazis had found it a handicap in their campaign against the western end of Britain's Atlantic lifeline.

Full Statement Urged By Pepper

Senator Claude Pepper, Democrat, Florida, a leading proponent of "affirmative action" against the Axis powers, suggested in a statement today that Mr. Roosevelt announce a full national emergency and then tell his listeners that "we will not let England fall..."

"We should tell him (Hitler) that we will not permit him to occupy the Azores, other Atlantic islands, or Dakar. And we should tell him we are not going to let him get into a position where he could occupy them. Then, if we have to take military steps, our record will be clear."

Senator George Norris, Independent, Nebraska, told reporters that in his opinion the sinking of the British battleship Hood by the Nazi battleship Bismarck made urgent the necessity of giving Britain or Canada war vessels from the U.S. navy for north Atlantic convoy service.

Story of Escape From Crete

Greek King in Egypt On Way to Britain

By EDWARD KENNEDY

CAIRO (AP)—King George of Greece and his emigre government found a temporary haven in Egypt today en route from embattled Crete to British soil, and the King himself told the stirring story of how the first swarms of Nazi parachutists concentrated on an area about his house.

He reached Cairo after a hair-raising withdrawal from the besieged Greek island and, besides escaping the clouds of air-borne troops, his party had to dodge bullets of his own soldiers, who thought they were 'chutists disguised in British and Greek uniforms.

In a proclamation issued here he said Greece would continue the fight.

After a rest in Egypt, King George will continue on to British territory, presumably England, where he said he and Greece's "lawful government" would continue to function.

In his own words the king told the weird story of his flight, as follows:

"After several days of intensive air attack, the crisis of the battle of Crete was reached when in the early morning of May 20 the enemy launched its air-borne offensive," the king said. "One of the main objectives of the German parachute troops was the area around the house where the premier and I lived."

"In fact, the first flight of parachutists landed within a few hundred yards of my house and the fight began at once between parachutists and the Allied troops in that area."

"As the main force of the enemy separated us from our troops it became imperative for us to withdraw in order to frustrate their plans."

ISOLATED FROM ALLIES

"From Managaya and later from Therisson, where we stopped in order to follow the course of battle, it proved impossible for us to keep in touch either with the remaining members of the government or with the Allied command. We later discovered military and civil authorities also had tried without success to communicate with us."

"We, therefore, pursued our journey toward the mountains," the king continued.

"After careful examination of the situation thus created in concert with our responsible advisers we became convinced our continued presence in Crete would handicap the conduct of military operations."

"We consequently decided with profound regret to leave this heroic island..."

"We leave Crete for the time being to proceed to British territory to which we have been invited. This is the only course which will enable us to carry out the duties imposed on us by the interests of the nation."

Security said in a communique today,

"It is now known that yesterday afternoon a Messerschmitt 110 was shot down into the sea by one of our fighters, making a total of two enemy aircraft destroyed during the day."

"Yesterday evening bombs were dropped at a point on the southeast coast which caused neither damage nor casualties. During the hours of darkness there has been nothing to report."

A new Canadian Legion hall in Comox, built primarily as a recreation centre for naval ratings in training at Comox, will be opened on Wednesday.

Twenty representatives of the three Victoria branches of the Legion will attend the opening of the hall, which will be used as headquarters of Comox Branch No. 160. The building of the hall was financed by the Britannia,

Valera Protests Ulster Conscription

DUBLIN (CP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Eire denounced today suggestions that conscription be applied to Northern Ireland as a "grievous attack" on a "fundamental human right."

The Dail Eireann was packed as the Prime Minister rose to make his second objection against the British conscription plan. Among his hearers was Sir John Maffey, the British representative.

Mr. de Valera recalled to the members, who had been called into special session to consider the proposal, that he had protested to the British government before the outbreak of war.

"There could be no more grievous attack on any fundamental human right," he told the audience, "than the plan to force an individual to fight by force for a country to which he objected to belong."

PART OF IRELAND

"The six northern counties are a part of Ireland, have always been a part of Ireland, the inhabitants are Irish and nothing can alter the fact," Mr. de Valera added.

Eire asserts her constitution applies to the whole of Ireland, including the six counties of Northern Ireland, or Ulster, but, pending union of the so-called national territory, it excludes Northern Ireland from legal jurisdiction of the Dublin government. Dublin has maintained a neutral stand in the war.

No matter what political and economic changes are in store for the world, the Prime Minister said, the people living in Britain and Ireland "are destined to live as neighbors."

DENIES HOSTILITY

Mr. de Valera said Eire had refrained from doing anything that might be regarded as "hostile" to Britain, but asserted that if London went ahead with the conscription proposal the people of Britain and Ireland "would be thrown back into their old unhappy relations."

From the time Prime Minister Churchill indicated conscription for the six northern counties, he said, he was "sure there was no Irishman in any part of Ireland who did not see at once the magnitude of the issues involved and the danger which lay in the proposals."

Enlistment in the British cause in northern Ireland heretofore has been on a voluntary basis.

$148,000 Malahat Contract Awarded

Reconstruction of 2.15 miles of the Malahat Highway, beyond the summit, in the vicinity of Hamsterley Malahat, will start soon with Dawson, Wade and Company doing the work.

Contract was awarded by the Public Works Department today at $148,014.02. Dawson, Wade and Company were low of three firms bidding.

Two stretches of the highway will be rebuilt in the contract, one going from mile 20.68 to mile 21.83, and the other from mile 22 to mile 23. This will continue the reconstruction and realignment of the scenic drive started five years ago by the Works Department.

OTHER CONTRACTS

Tenders were also submitted last week on another Malahat project, a diversion between miles 23 and 27.53, which would put the main road along the bench behind Mill Bay, connecting with the present highway at Millstream. Low bid on this project was $117,000. Contract for the work has not been let, however, and it is expected the project may be deferred until next year.

Award of the Malahat contract was among 10 announced by the department today, calling for a total expenditure of $370,000 on highway construction work.

The other successful bidders, the lowest in each case, were as follows:

Squamish Britannia Road, Mile 4.58 to Britannia, miles 7.65; Dawson, Wade and Company Ltd., $43,515.52.

Hospital Road at Pender Harbor; Holmes and Wilson Trucking Company, $10,908.90.

Northern Transprovincial Highway, Usk-Cedarvale section, mile 10.8 to mile 14.77; W. C. Arnett and Company, $50,000.70. Trans-Canada Highway, mile 96.2 (Silver Creek) to mile 97.1; Dawson, Wade and Company, $20,684.80.

Kootenay-Columbia Highway, mile 1.89 to mile 4.52 south of Golden; General Construction Co. Ltd., $31,898.

Northern Transprovincial Highway, section A, near Perow; Associated Engineering Co., $12,533; section B, Sinclair Mills, Associated Engineering Co., $13,075.

Trail-Salmo Road, mile 0 to 1.8

No LaGuardia Tour

LONDON (CP)—Herbert Morrison, Minister of Home Security, was reported reliably today to have invited Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York, recently named director of the United States office of civilian defence, to visit Britain as soon as possible.

Mr. LaGuardia was said to be deciding when he could best get away for such a trip.

Mr. LaGuardia said "forget it," when he was asked about the report in New York.

"I have got too much work to do right here," he added.

How you can borrow $20 to $500 without asking others to sign with you—No credit investigation among friends—Repay in monthly instalments—Quick service

CAN you make good use of extra funds this month? Household Finance offers a simple way for the employed man or woman to get cash for an emergency. You need no endorsers or guarantors.

We make your loan on your own signature (husband and wife sign together). No need of asking friends or fellow-workers to sign with you. Nor do we question others about your credit. Loans are made on furniture or car. But we attach far more importance to character and regular income than to the value of security.

Loans are completed quickly—usually in 24 hours, in some cases even sooner.

Fair treatment

Since Household began making loans in Canada over eight years ago, we have made over $25,000,000 in loans totalling more than $51,000,000. In not a single case did we foreclose a mortgage or garnish a wage cheque. Fair treatment of customers has helped to make Household Finance the largest personal loan organization in North America.

If a loan can help you to better yourself, we invite you to phone or visit us without obligation.

Ralph Bell Speeds Aircraft Mission

LONDON (CP)—Ralph Bell, director-general of aircraft production in the Canadian Department of Munitions, believes in getting things done fast.

Since his arrival in Britain May 16 to consult with officials with a view to Canada exerting a maximum effort in the production of aircraft most required in the United Kingdom, Mr. Bell has been traveling throughout the country in a light airplane, attending conferences and visiting factories.

Already he has had several conferences with B. T. C. Moore-Brabazon, Minister of Aircraft Production, and a meeting with Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of State.

His forceful manner has impressed British newspapermen. When one approached him for an interview, Mr. Bell drew up a couple of chairs, saying "I can't talk sitting behind a desk."

Hood Blown Up With Admiral's Pennant Flying

Canadian Press

Only a brief Admiralty communiqué has been released to tell how H.M.S. Hood, largest warship in the world, was blown to bits Saturday in the waters between Iceland and Greenland.

"British naval forces intercepted early this Saturday morning off the coast of Greenland German naval forces, including the battleship Bismarck.

"The enemy were attacked, and during the ensuing action H.M.S. Hood (Capt. R. Kerr, C.B., R.N.) wearing the flag of Vice-Admiral L. E. Holland, received an unlucky hit in a magazine and blew up.

"The Bismarck has received damage and the pursuit of the enemy continues.

"It is feared there will be few survivors from H.M.S. Hood."

That was all.

Had Special Armor To Protect Vitals

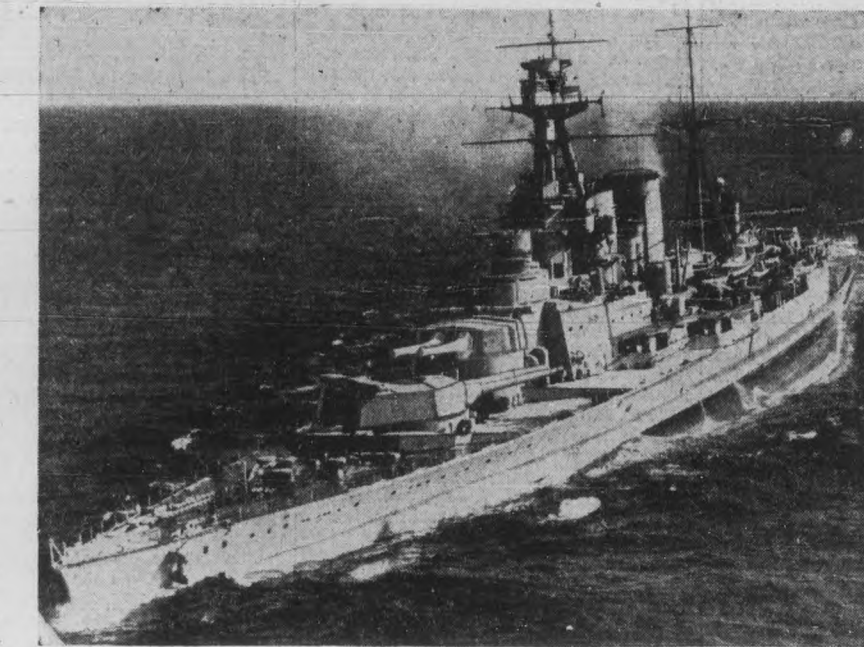

The Hood's loss was tragically ironic in that her completion in 1920 was delayed for the installation of special armor to protect her vitals as a result of the lessons learned in the 1916 Battle of Jutland.

In that battle, at least two British capital ships were destroyed by exploded magazines.

Built at an original cost of more than $6,000,000 (normally $30,000,000), the Hood was heavily reinforced in a two-year overhaul in 1929-30.

She was rated a battlecruiser—one of three in the Royal Navy—because she was of battleship size and armament but was more lightly armored in the interests of speed.

In trials she turned up 32 knots, compared with an estimated 30-knot speed for the 35,000-ton Bismarck, which was launched in 1939. The 1930 additions to the Hood's armor, however, undoubtedly cut the Hood down a few knots. Her armor weighed 13,800 tons, or about one-third the total displacement, but still was regarded as having less protection than modern battleships carry.

ONCE MIGHTIEST WARSHIP—It was an unlucky shot from the German battleship Bismarck which penetrated the vitals of H.M.S. Hood in North Atlantic waters Saturday.

2 Big Ships Equal Gun Power

In gun power the Hood and Bismarck were almost equal, each having eight 15-inch rifles and bristling with smaller arms.

The Hood carried torpedoes and one plane, the Bismarck was fitted for four planes; whether torpedoes are carried is not known.

The Hood is Britain's second capital ship lost since the war began, the old battleship Royal Oak having been destroyed by a submarine torpedo at Scapa Flow, October 14, 1939.

At that time the Germans claimed the Hood also may have been hit, but this was denied. Ever since, German propaganda, later supported by that of Italy, had the Hood "sunk" or "badly damaged" a number of times.

Britain still has 15 capital ships, 13 battleships and 2 battlecruisers, having commissioned two, the King George V and the Prince of Wales, since the war began.

Germany lost one of her three pocket battleships, the Admiral Graf Spee, in December, 1939, in the Battle of Montevideo, and the Nazi battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst lie crippled by Royal Air Force bombs at Brest. But she still has at least two other battleships, the Bismarck and Tirpitz, and two pocket battleships presumably in service.

The Nazi propaganda agency said Admiral Guenther Leutjens was in command of the German squadron of which the Bismarck was a member when it met the Hood.

Japan Now Claims Largest Warship

Destruction of the Hood apparently leaves Japan as principal claimant to the "largest warship" title, her Nissin and Takamatsu of something more than 40,000 tons having been either recently commissioned or scheduled to be so soon.

Loss of the Hood recalled how three of Admiral Beatty's battlecruisers, the Queen Mary, the Indefatigable and the Invincible, suffered similar fates in the 1916 Battle of Jutland.

The Queen Mary was sunk after five direct hits on her hull. The magazine blew up and 1,258 officers and men were lost.

Two shells struck the Indefatigable's forecastle near the forward turret. Thirty seconds later the magazines exploded and 1,015 men were killed.

The Invincible was struck by a shell from the German battleship Derfflinger with Vice-Admiral Horace Hood aboard. The warship was blown to bits with loss of more than 1,000 lives.

Canadians Are World's Best Paid Fighters

By NORMAN MACLEOD

OTTAWA — Partial but important background of the present campaign to secure 32,000 men for the Canadian armed services is the fact that the soldiers of the Dominion—all things considered—are the best paid fighters in the world.

The Department of National Defence has issued statistics in reply to the suggestion that the United States infantryman, because he enjoys certain advantages of soldiers' insurance, is preferred over the Canadian Tommy.

Here they are:

The Canadian private gets, basically, $1.30 a day, or approximately $40 a month.

The United States soldier gets, basically, $21 a month, with increases over his period of training that bring his final pay up to $30 a month.

The British Tommy receives 3s 3d a day—roughly 80 cents.

Compared with these rates, soldiers in the armies of continental Europe fight for starvation wages. On the basis of current rates of exchange, for instance, the German soldier receives less than $7 a month; the Italian infantryman, about $1.70, and the French soldier—when he is fighting—about 50 cents.

The Turkish soldier is the world's lowest paid fighter. He receives in Canadian funds, at present rates of exchange, a little more than 5 cents a month.

The Hood was the third British warship of that name, in honor of Admiral Sir Samuel Hood of the 18th century. Vice-Admiral Horace Hood, killed in the Battle of Jutland, was his lineal descendant.

Total British Losses Listed

The sinking of the Hood brought to 88 the total warships of various categories acknowledged lost by the British Admiralty since the war's start.

Previous losses: One battleship, 2 aircraft carriers, 5 cruisers, 11 armed merchant cruisers, 43 destroyers, including two Canadian, 25 submarines.

Hood Visited Many World Points

To the cheers of a proud nation, the Hood, an admiral's pennant flying smartly from her highest staff and her mighty guns glistening in the sunlight, slid out to sea from Glasgow, Scotland, March 5, 1920, as a symbol of Great Britain's mastery of the seas.

For 21 years this 42,100-ton giant—the largest warship afloat—toured the sea lanes of the world. She visited the far-flung ports of the British Empire on missions that made for Empire solidarity, and she visited the ports of many other nations as an emissary of good will and a reminder of Britain's might.

Now, after an eventful, colorful career and at a time when Britain had dire need for her might and power, the ship is on the bottom of the turbulent north Atlantic, a broken, battered hulk.

An admiral's pennant still waved from the gigantic sea queen's highest staff when she sank—the pennant of Vice-Admiral L. E. Holland, who, with the Hood's commander, Capt. R. Kerr and perhaps all of the 1,341 man crew, presumably went down with her.

Once Collided With Renown

Once, when the British fleet was manoeuvring off the coast of Spain under the command of Rear-Admiral Bailey, the Hood and the battleship Renown collided. Neither was seriously damaged, but the repercussions from the incident were of world-wide interest.

For the first time since the World War, a high ranking British navy officer was court-martialled. In traditional style, Rear-Admiral Bailey went before the naval court and submitted his sword.

The evidence was heard and after the court had deliberated, Bailey returned to the courtroom to find his sword on the table, its hilt pointed toward him—a sign that the court had acquitted him of having hazarded two great ships.

Capt. Tower, who later became a rear-admiral, also was found innocent, but Capt. H. R. Sawbridge of the Renown was found guilty and relieved of his command. Later, the navy supreme court reversed the decision and returned Capt. Sawbridge to his command.

Admiral Holland Gunnery Expert

Vice-Admiral L. E. Holland, whose flag the Hood was flying when she engaged the Bismarck, was a gunnery specialist who invented important improvements in anti-aircraft fire control.

He was a rear-admiral in the Second Battle Squadron of the Home Fleet before the war and previously had served as assistant chief of the naval staff and commodore in command of the Royal Naval Barracks at Portsmouth.

He also had been deputy director of the Naval Staff College and headed a British naval mission to Greece in 1931-32. He later commanded the battleships Revenge and Valiant in the Mediterranean.

Captain R. Kerr, commander of the Hood, served aboard the battleship Benbow in the Great War.

In 1935 he took command of the 21st Destroyer Flotilla and in 1936 assumed command of H.M.S. Caldeon and ships of the Reserve Fleet at Devonport.

In 1938 he became captain of the destroyer Hardy—later beached and lost at Narvik in the Norwegian campaign—and subsequently succeeded to command of the Second Destroyer Flotilla of the Mediterranean fleet.

Vote Predicted For Japanese

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Political disabilities of the Japanese Canadians will disappear with time because "the province of British Columbia cannot stand out indefinitely against the force of British tradition and North American practice," Professor H. F. Angus of the University of British Columbia said in an address at the closing session of the Canadian Political Science Association's annual meeting here.

"Once the presence of a Canadian Japanese group as a permanent part of the population is accepted as inevitable and all hope of killing, sterilization or deporting is abandoned, the impossibility of keeping a racial minority in an inferior political position will become more and more important," he said.

Prof. Angus predicted that most of the legal economic barriers will fall with concession of the franchise to the Japanese Canadians on the west coast. But he said, there exists a barrier which is more intractable and infinitely more serious.

"As long as a de facto color bar excludes the elite of the Japanese Canadians from occupations for which they are fully qualified by ability and by education, this group will become more and more discontented and embittered. They will have to accept inferior jobs and inferior incomes."

Prof. Angus urged that Canadians should concern themselves with the fortunes of this small group. "We should endeavor to see that they find occupational opportunities roughly comparable with those of Canadians of other races. We should convince them by deeds and not by words, that Canada will give them a square deal."

Prof. Angus turned to another aspect of the Oriental minority problem when he said that "when Chinese women were excluded by heavy taxation (from Canada) no estimate was made, so far as I know, either of the number of white girls whose ruin was the natural and probable consequence of this exclusion, of the crime and delinquency which were likely to accompany it."

BRITISH SMOKERS HAVE HARD TIME

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—The tobacco situation has reached a serious stage in Britain.

There is much in the puffers' present predicament reminiscent of the old prohibition days in the United States, with all sorts of similar dodges, expressions and jokes.

Strange brands with stranger names and still stranger taste are appearing on the nearly famished market.

A small man in a black hat tipped into the A.P. office carrying a suitcase which he opened slyly, revealing several packs of cigarettes and pipe tobacco.

One brand which tasted like—well, maybe a mixture of wet rug and mangy cat's fur—sold quickly at 18 cents for 10 cigarettes.

With sellers whispering, "Sh-h—these are just off the boat," popular United States brands recently retailed in London for 50 cents for 20 cigarettes.

Pulling out a pack of American cigarettes or any popular British brand at a London gathering creates a queer atmosphere—folks go glassy-eyed, their fingers twitching avidly, lips set in sweet anticipation.

An attaché of the United States embassy, who with the ebb and flow of visitors gets a good share of American cigarettes, reports that he gave a man a pack and the grateful recipient invited him for a week-end visit in the country.

Red Cross Notes

At an executive meeting of the Belmont Red Cross held at "Pircones," Island Highway, Sir Heaton F. Robinson, president, stated 16 persons had paid their membership fee this month, and the silver song tea, held at "Marshwood" under the auspices of the Langford Women's Institute, realized $25.

The average life of a homing pigeon is 14 to 15 years.

"... and there will always be a London"

Who can say how much the Englishman's love of his pipe has done to enable him so magnificently to clench his teeth and keep his chin up during the present crisis? But "pipe" really means "tobacco"—those splendid mixtures which English tobacco-nists have developed from the pick of the world's crops. Piccadilly is Canada's gift to those who prefer English Mixtures.

Mr. De Valera Again

WERE THIS WAR NOT ONE OF the startling surprises the world would stand agape at the idea of the Prime Minister of neutral Eire denouncing suggestions that conscription be applied to Northern Ireland. Mr. de Valera told the Dail Eireann today that the plan discussed between representatives of Ulster and the British government for the recruitment of further manpower for the Six Counties is a "grievous attack" on a "fundamental right"—this demand of an individual to "fight by force for a country to which he objected to belong."

If there is one thing which Eire's doctrinaire governmental chief has insisted on more emphatically than anything else it is the right of any nation or Parliament to decide its own course down to the last infinitesimal detail. He has prided himself on the fact that he removed Southern Ireland from its former collaboration with the rest of the self-governing states of the British Commonwealth to a point of virtual disinterestedness—a point from which it could go its own sweet way no matter what threats may assail it or consequences overcome it. Of all political leaders, Mr. de Valera is the prize disciple of the principle of self-determination, the outstanding crusader against the slender ties which associate one British country with another. He was endorsed in office in 1937 on a mandate in which he sought to bring the whole of Ireland within the framework of an Irish constitution of his own design. He knew when he fashioned this structure that the people of Ulster would have nothing to do with it; he was warned at the time, and has been reminded on many occasions since, that he had no more chance of weaning the Six Counties from their staunch association and co-operation with the people of Britain than he had of becoming the President of the United States.

Undoubtedly there are many followers of the Prime Minister of Eire in Ulster—many Nationalists who are earning their living there, many who object to do anything that might help the British cause against Nazi tyranny. By the same token, the population of Southern Ireland numbers thousands who are giving their all so that decency and human rights may prevail, and many more who are ready to do the same. But when the elected representatives of the Six Counties consider further help to Britain, it is none other than Mr. de Valera himself who seeks to dictate the course of a "foreign" Parliament. Evidently it is not enough for this strange philosopher, this repository of ancient hatreds, to aid in his own peculiar fashion the forces of evil. He must perforce attempt to deny to others that freedom of action on which he stakes so much.

London Goes Over the Top

WITH THE EXCELLENT EXAMPLE OF other cities before it, London inaugurated a War Weapons Week last Monday, and set its objective at £100,000,000, or $445,000,000 at current rates of exchange. By midday on Friday contributions had reached the remarkable total of £100,600,000; 24 hours afterward the figure had reached £108,700,000, or $8,700,000 beyond the mark the great metropolis had set for itself. As this is written the final report has not reached us. War Weapons Weeks up and down the country in recent months have been conducted with a success no adjective can adequately describe. In every instance the objective has been reached with comparative ease and passed by a substantial sum. And the more the cities have been bombed the greater has been the response. Small wonder, perhaps, that the ancient city should rise up from the ashes of many of its historic monuments and pour out its wealth in such a magnificent manner. If the world required an answer to speculation on British determination to see this business through to a victorious end it can be detected unmistakably in last week's unsurpassed response to still another appeal for material sacrifice.

May not this reflection of indomitable courage, manifested during six days of new trials and disappointments, serve to remind Canadians of the further obligations resting on them as British peoples everywhere contemplate the ever-increasing threat to their liberties? The sum which much-bombed London has raised in a week ought to be an inspiration to the people of this fair land as they prepare to assure the folk of the Empire's metropolis that we of the senior overseas Dominion will dig deeply into our pockets when the books for Canada's Victory Loan are opened next Monday.

The First of Her Class

VIEWED FROM ANY STANDPOINT, the destruction of H.M.S. Hood must be considered a serious blow to the Royal Navy, but especially because of the grievous loss of life and, psychologically, because she was the largest and heaviest fighting ship in service on the seven seas. Victorians experienced a particularly nasty shock, as so many of us remembered the pride with which we trod her spacious decks when she and the Repulse were tied up at Ogden Point for a halt on their Empire tour in the early summer of 1924. If there is any mitigating circumstance in this tragic removal of a gallant warrior from the battle craft of the line, however, it may be found in the fact that she received her mortal blow from one of the newest, speediest, and most heavily-protected ships of the Nazi fleet. And if the missile which the Bismarck threw at her from 16-inch armament had not had the devil's luck to strike her in her vital spot—her magazine—the engagement of which details still are lacking might have had a very different ending.

Crying over spilt milk will avail us nothing. Nor is it wise to try to minimize the effect the sinking of the Hood will have on the German people; they will crow about it, as we would have done had the Bismarck gone down instead of escaping with more or less serious injuries. But in the final analysis the most serious point of the blow, by far, is the fate of so many officers and men who had naturally become especially attached to a huge machine that to them represented the last word in everything for which fighting ships stand. However, even in this respect, the gallant men whose memory will linger affectionately in hundreds of homes were under no delusion; they knew that in combat between battleships of almost approximate tonnage, a 20-year-old craft is obviously at a serious disadvantage against a two-year-old product with heavier armor, guns of larger calibre and with much greater speed. Lighting the gloom which the end of the Hood has cast over British peoples everywhere, perhaps, is the knowledge that the Royal Navy has a substantial margin of battleship strength over the combined European enemy—actual and potential.

Health and War

WHEN A NATION IS AT WAR AND IS obliged to think and act as if the enemy were actually knocking at the gates, it is not a simple matter to direct people's thoughts into channels seemingly remote from the main preoccupation. But more often than not considerations with the appearance of side issues are of supreme importance not only to the physical and mental well-being of the nation; they are also directly related to the maintenance of its morale—vital to this country as it assumes a still more comprehensive role in the battle against totalitarianism. It is because the Health League of Canada, under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor-General, is rendering yeoman service through its practical educational program that we refer to this unspectacular phase of our war effort.

This organization is now reminding the nation that while science has contributed knowledge to make many or most types of disease preventable, and greatly to extend the possibilities of the cure of illness, the general public has failed to take full advantage of this knowledge, with the result that this country is paying for unnecessary loss of health, life, efficiency and money. In simple words, half of the sickness today could be avoided. Its cost annually, moreover, of $300,000,000 could be cut in half, while the loss in industrial production through illness—10 times greater than the losses through accident—also could be reduced to a minimum. The question is asked: How is this to be done? The League supplies the answer—by educating the public, by telling the people of the discoveries of science. Here are cases in point:

"For a bold example look what Toronto and other Canadian centres have done to eliminate diphtheria. By educating parents in the fact that Toxoid prevents diphtheria, and by encouraging them to have their children immunized, this dread disease that once robbed Canada of thousands of precious lives has been wiped out of many cities. It could be eliminated altogether through public education. What is needed in Canada today is a great crusade of reiteration, reiteration, reiteration of the means for preventing unnecessary illness. If people only knew that through the pasteurization of milk, tuberculosis and many other milk-borne diseases could be avoided, they would demand that their milk be pasteurized. If people knew that through correct diet they could prevent many varied illnesses, they would demand to know what are the right foods to eat. If people knew that a yearly examination would enable doctors to prescribe early treatment for cancer and other ailments, they would soon adopt the practice of periodic health examination."

Not only is it incumbent on Canadians to give more heed to health matters while the nation's mental, physical and moral fibre is being tested in the crucible of war, our existence as a healthy and capable state in the long and trying period of reconstruction that will follow the conflict will be enhanced or jeopardized by the measure of intelligent attention we give to health problems now. The work being done by the Health League of Canada points the way to a national investment capable of paying increasingly larger dividends if only the average individual will imbibe elementary but fundamental advice—if he or she will permit himself or herself to be taught the rudimentary lessons of prevention.

LET'S PUT OUR SHOULDER TO THIS

From Ottawa Journal
We Canadians say often, and believe, that German morale will crack. We have now been presented with an opportunity to prove that our own morale won't crack. We have that opportunity in the war loan which the government has announced.

There must be no faltering about this loan; no possibility of its failure. For once, regardless of party or of politics, regardless of class, creed, racial origin or of anything else that can be conceived of, we Canadians must unite to put over this loan overwhelmingly. United to send word across the seas to England—and to Germany—that the people of this land are a solid rock of resolution to put every last ounce of their substance into the winning of this war.

Let us, therefore, from this day until this loan is oversubscribed work for it, talk for it, give for it. Let there be no criticism, no bickering, no complaining, and no defeatism. This is our war job, a vital front we've been asked to hold, and we just can't fail in it.

ASTOUNDING NEWS

SOME PEOPLE, I gather, are astounded at the federal government's new order forbidding the construction of large buildings except under permit. There still remains in the country the quaint notion that the role of the true patriot at this time is to spend as much money and use as much material as possible—a notion which, if accepted, might have saved us from the depression but, as usual, was realized too late. That is the trouble with our ideas as a society. By the time the public finally grasp them they have decayed and become rank poison.

People have clamored, quite properly, for more war effort but they have never yet grasped what the present war effort means. They have visualized it in dollars, in some vague abstractions, in dreams of marching men and spectacles of battle. They have not realized it in terms of things, in terms of brick and concrete and lumber and jobs. They have not understood that the present war program (generally considered too small) means a complete dislocation and re-construction of our society, and the ban on new buildings is only one small phase of it. Much more will follow.

CONSCRIPTION?

CONSCRIPTION MAY FOLLOW. Certainly there is a strong agitation for it through the country. But it will not be the kind of conscription that most people visualize, their ideas being still in the dead era of 1917. If we need conscription in Canada today it will be chiefly for industry—to get men from one part of the country to the other where they are needed, to take men out of certain unnecessary jobs and to put them behind lathes and forges and factory assembly lines.

That is the kind of conscription they have in Britain, very unpleasant but, in the end, essential for a total war effort. And it includes, of course, conscription of wealth, now well under way, for conscription of wealth is not some magical formula, some awful secret rite, as many people seem to imagine, but just taxing people up to the neck to pay for the war. We have not begun to pay for it yet, by the way, but we shall begin with the forthcoming loan.

OLD NEW HOUSES

HOWEVER, THE GOVERNMENT has not banned the construction of homes and it is pleasing to see them shooting up, all painted and neat, like spring flowers, all over the landscape. Pleasant to observe also that most of them, however small, are of good style, not like the ghastly, grim, dark fungus growth that we used to think the height of modernity before the last war.

The new houses, you will note, are not modern in the true sense, except for plumbing. They are a throw-back to the original designs of men who built English cottages and wooden houses in New England. We have found at last that these designs had an intrinsic and authentic beauty of their own that lasts through the ages where all our gimcrack, gingerbread creations of 20 years ago were distortions, exaggerations, illusions. Nevertheless, it is sad to reflect that all these modern houses will be out of date in another 20 years when, I suppose, they will be building of glass, of steel and concrete, of plastics, with vast concealed machines that will do all the housework, cook all the meals, digest all the food, conceive all the thoughts and, no doubt, produce all the young. And, as in any North American city, what we are building is not a modern metropolis, but a slum of 40 years hence.

REMINDER

IT IS DELIGHTFUL to find that behind all the rush and clamor of these days there are still gentle souls in Victoria who just sit and contemplate, which is the true purpose of man, but seldom attained. Such a one writes me, in deep distress, to say that I was wrong in my broad, reckless and rather violent assertions that Thomas Gray took 50 years to write his "Elegy." On the contrary, says my informant, Gray presented the poem to Horace Walpole on its publication, when Gray was 35 years old, and he died at 55.

Ah, but the answer is simple. The man was mulling it over in his mind long before birth and long after publication, half a century at least, perhaps two centuries for nothing like it appeared before or since. Probably he is still re-writing it somewhere, in sunshine and clouds. That is the obvious answer to my correspondent. But it is still a fine thing to know that people have time to think, to look up dates, to refresh memories, to quote the classics and to take pen in hand and write to the newspapers. Somewhere, behind all the rushing and excitement, the marching, building, wrangling, are gentle souls, all unknown, still living. That is the surprising thing—still actually living when the art of life had been thought to be as extinct as the carrier pigeon in America these last 20 years.

Oppressed Norway Thinks Only of Eventual Freedom

By CARL G. O. HANSEN
Educational Director, Sons of Norway

Though the people of Norway at present are under the heel of oppressors, the spirit of liberty is more intensely alive than ever in the more than 1,000-year-old history of the land.

The king and the government, temporarily in England, and the Norwegian merchant fleet, still sailing the seas, are carrying on to regain complete liberty for all the Norwegian people, and at home, the people, by passive resistance, are neutralizing the Nazification efforts of the invaders.

At various times, Norway was united with neighbors, Denmark or Sweden, but she always asserted her independence.

Particularly critical was the situation at the close of the Napoleonic wars when the victors, by the treaty of Kiel, January 18, 1814, decreed that the king of Denmark should cede Norway to the king of Sweden.

The Norwegians arose as one man.

In place of submitting to the dictations of the powers, they chose, by popular election, representatives to an assembly at Eidsvoll where on May 17 a constitution was adopted, largely modelled after that of the United States.

Norway succeeded in asserting the independence declared at Eidsvoll. A union was formed with Sweden, but inasmuch as the Norwegians felt themselves hampered within that union, and the majority of the Swedish people saw the justice of their demands, it was peacefully dissolved in 1905.

For 35 years, Norway enjoyed this absolute independence.

Norway, along with the other Scandinavian countries, stood as an example to the world of democracy as a workable system of government.

Such were the conditions in Norway when, on April 9, 1940, for the first time in history foreign forces entered to take possession of the land.

Believing that civilization had advanced to such an extent that no international quarrel need be settled by force of arms, Norway had neglected her military defenses.

The Viking spirit today is bound up with veneration of the constitutional fathers of 1814, who made a "syttende mai" a symbol of liberty and justice for the Norwegian nation.

1930 Advice: Go Slow on Planes

By HAROLD WARD
In "New Worlds in Science," Published by McBride

With the invention of the lightweight internal combustion engine, successful airplanes were flown. Yet the British War Ministry refused to negotiate with manufacturers of airplanes in 1907, four years after Wright's first actual flight.

Previous to April, 1926, when it established a separate class for aircraft, the German patent office had the same classification for airplanes as for children's toys, popular amusements and shooting galleries.

It has not merely been fear that has delayed the popular use of flying as a means of transportation. . . . The railroads, steamboats and autobus lines, as well as automobile manufacturers, have propagated against the extension of air routes.

Established airplane companies have discouraged new capital from entering the field, as is reflected in an editorial in the Business Chronicle, January 27, 1930:

"A few infant industries to supply airplane materials might yet gain foothold in the Pacific coast states, but community boosters will do wisely to move very slowly now in encouraging any new airplane manufacturing enterprise. In most cases the money and effort can be better devoted to some more promising project."

Nazi Bomber Output Now at 500 Per Month

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen in the Washington Merry-Go-Round

Though not announced by the White House, two compelling factors were behind the President's sensational letter to Secretary Stimson asking for an immediate increase in the monthly output of bombers.

One was the obvious need of providing Britain with more and bigger planes to carry the offensive to Germany.

Second, known only to inside authorities, was intelligence information that the Nazis are increasing the bomber force of their Luftwaffe.

The reports are that the German air force now consists of the following:

Six main air fleets, each comprising 1,000 bombers, 625 fighters and 75 reconnaissance planes, a total of 10,200.

Also there is an independent air unit of 2,750 planes, a naval air service of 1,000, an operational training unit of 650, and a transport organization of 3,500 planes.

In addition to these first-line ships, is a reserve of 12,000 others, plus 5,000 trainers and transports.

Grand total: About 35,000 planes.

German airplane production capacity is estimated at 3,000 planes a month, including about 500 bombers.

Nazi March production is estimated at 2,200 ships of all types, but only 1,600 in April.

In May, however, intelligence reports are that Nazi plane production is being stepped up to replace Balkan and North African losses.

The undisclosed bomber goal of 1941 to which Roosevelt referred in his letter to Stimson, is 600 a month.

FINE FOR KIDNEY AND BLADDER WEAKNESS

STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS. LOOK AND FEEL 100%

Keep your kidneys free from waste matter, poisons and acid, and put healthy activity into kidneys and bladder and you'll live a healthier, happier and longer life.

One most efficient and harmless way to do this is to get from your druggist a 40-cent box of GOLD MEDAL Bacterium Oil Capsules (Dutch Drops in Capsules) and take them as directed—the swift results will surprise you.

Besides getting up nights, some symptoms of kidney trouble may be backache, moist palms, leg cramps, and puffy eyes.

Don't be an EAST MARK and accept a substitute—ask for GOLD MEDAL CAPSULES, the original and genuine packed in Canada—the kidney stimulant and diuretic. Look for the Gold Medal on the box.

JUST GIVE US TIME

From Minneapolis Star-Journal
Experimenters at Columbia university have ascertained that the smallest amount of light visible to the human eye is a blue-green flash lasting one-thousandth of a second. The remarkable thing about such extreme sensitivity is that only a small amount of that minute piece of light penetrates the outer cornea and reaches the seeing mechanism, the retina.

Such instances of the body's efficiency are often cited in rather contemptuous reference to devices made by man, which haven't a fraction of that efficiency.

But Nature has been working on man, and perfecting him, for millions of years, while man's preoccupation with tools and gadgets covers only a few thousand years at most.

If the radio is a less marvelous development than the human hand (the thumb of which revolutionized man's skill and domination of the world) it isn't a poor achievement for a few decades' work. It's safe to assume that Nature, unassisted, could not have evolved a radio in a couple of hundred million years.

Fusiliers Hold Anniversary Party

Commemorating the 25th anniversary of the battalion's leaving for overseas, 100 veterans of the 88th (Victoria Fusiliers) Battalion, C.E.F., gathered on Friday night at Spencer's dining-room and late in the evening marched to the Cenotaph where a wreath was placed on the monument in memory of those who died in the Great War. A spotlight from a C.P.R. steamer lit the ceremonial scene.

The meeting in the dining-room opened with the traditional silent toast to fallen comrades with a tribute being read by George Turner. Frank Giolma proposed the toast to the armed forces, calling on members to support the recruiting campaign.

2,000 See Gas Combat Display

Demonstration of how to combat gas warfare attracted 2,000 people to Beacon Hill Park yesterday afternoon.

The crowd gathered on the look-out hill and around a roped off area on the Douglas Street soccer field, where members of the 4th Light Anti-aircraft Regimental Workshop of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps showed modern methods of coping with the menace of gas.

High-explosive delayed action bombs, incendiary and gas bombs, a diving R.C.A.F. plane and anti-aircraft fire gave the civilian audience a graphic picture of what the people of Great Britain are standing up against in their everyday life.

An explanation of the different movements of the soldier demonstrators was given over a public-address system by Capt. W. D. Hewlett.

The demonstrators were: Acting Sergt. J. Laban and Pts. E. P. Steeves, N. Durringer, B. Grainger, W. Greenwood, I. Watkins, J. G. Bragg, W. E. Bradburn, G. C. Adams and T. Hockley. Lance-Corpl. J. T. White of the Canadian Scottish was in charge.

The display opened with a parade of soldiers wearing clothing and carrying equipment designed for use in chemical warfare.

The siren walls (top picture) to warn against the presence of deadly gas. A smoke-screen has been set up to hide the location from an "enemy" plane which dropped the gas bomb. Clad in gas slickers and wearing respirators (lower), two soldiers slip gas detectors on their bayonets before going on guard duty.

Respirator drill followed. One group of the demonstrators showed how the new recruit would put on his respirator, and another group gave the proper way in which the mask should be used.

Methods used in detecting gas were then shown.

MOCK AIR RAID

This was followed by a mock air raid, which brought serious thoughts to the older folk, who realized that the people in Britain were experiencing this sort of thing every day and night with real bombs exploding about them and demolishing their homes and businesses.

An R.C.A.F. plane power dived at the square. A siren warning sounded on the ground. Gunners rushed to anti-aircraft batteries. A smoke screen was set up.

Then came a loud explosion from the ground inside the demonstration square supposedly from a delayed action bomb from the "enemy" plane. The anti-aircraft guns fired. This was repeated several times and finally the all-clear signal was given as the plane roared away. Smoke shells were used in the anti-aircraft guns.

During the mock raid a small house in the enclosure was hit and soldiers dressed as women civilians were rescued from the ruins. They were treated for gas contamination while the bombs continued to explode about them.

CASUALTIES FEW

Capt. Elmore Philpott said that Canada had escaped lightly in the war so far. Losses in men up to the present numbered 800. At the same period in the last war 20,000 had been killed and there had been 70,000 casualties of all kinds.

"Before this war is over Canada will be called upon to pay in the lives and bodies of her sons in the cause of liberty," the writer said.

The war could not be fought by money alone, he continued. "If you are a young man, fit, it is not only your privilege but your duty to offer to enlist in the armed land forces immediately."

Nanaimo's Winning Choir to Sing Here

Fresh from new successes at the Vancouver Musical Festival, the Dunsmore Studio Girls' Choir of 25 voices, of Nanaimo, is being brought here for a concert in the Fairfield United Church on the evening of June 6.

Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, and member for Nanaimo, will officiate as chairman, and it is expected that many Nanaimo people now resident here will welcome this opportunity to hear the choir.

The choral group will be under the direction of Andrew Dunsmore. The program will comprise groups of choral numbers, solos, pianoforte numbers and elocution.

All artists performing have distinguished themselves at the Nanaimo and Vancouver festivals in the past three years. The concert will commence at 8.

Building Appeals

After considering several applications at its meeting last week, the city zoning board of appeal decided to require all applicants to submit their appeals in writing to the secretary, W. P. Wright, at least 48 hours before the regular meetings of the board.

During the business session the group gave conditional approval to plans of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Stevenson for a house and garage on the north of Richardson Street near Lotbiniere Avenue. A. H. Adams was instructed to apply for a permit to construct a garage at 3114 Irma Street; the appeal of William G. Adams for permission to instal plumbing at 1437 Vining Street was returned to him and Charles Ellis was given provisional permission to make an addition to 1627 Hollywood Crescent.

The board held over applications from C. A. Munro to convert 1321 George Street into a two-family home, from O. K. Lysne to change 1350 Gladstone Avenue into a duplex, from Mrs.

Many Servicemen Using Canteen

The work in connection with the Three Services Canteen has grown considerably in the last few weeks and a new volunteer staff has been organized to look after the counter as well as the monthly meeting of the Three Services W.A. recently, the president, Mrs. Molson, in the chair, when 34 members were present.

Last week-end the attendance was noticeably increased. There were at least 250 attending the movies and many stayed on for a sing-song. There are movies every Tuesday and Saturday nights, and Sundays are fireside evenings.

Gifts of a milk shake machine from Mrs. J. W. Benning, an electric clock from Mr. Trevor Roberts, a concertina from Mr. Stocks, a pencil sharpener from Senator Howell, egg timers from Mrs. Hew Paterson, a kitchen clock from Mrs. Arthur Gore and a cash donation from Miss Newcombe were gratefully acknowledged. The auxiliary also thanked Mr. Galley of the Central Parking Lot for allotting two parking spaces for the use of canteen workers.

At the conclusion of the meeting Adjutant and Mrs. Nelson and Adjutant Millay, in his new connection with the canteen, were welcomed by Mrs. Molson. They all spoke briefly, declaring pleasure in their work and expressing the conviction that the splendid assistance and co-operation received from the W.A. would be continued.

Mrs. E. W. Hamber returned to Government House this morning from Vancouver after spending the week-end at her country home, "Minnekada," Fraser Valley, where she entertained at a luncheon yesterday for Lady Byng, who is the guest of Mrs. J. P. Fell in the mainland city.

Mrs. R. Ainslie Foulis of Point Grey, Vancouver, has been visiting her parents, Rev. J. S. and Mrs. Patterson of 878 Esquimalt Road, for the last two weeks. Mr. Foulis and little son, Robin, joined them on Saturday and they all returned to Vancouver Sunday after visiting Mr. Foulis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Foulis, 2065 Goldsmith Street, Oak Bay, over the week-end.

Mrs. George Lillie, Cook Street, and her daughter, Miss Doreen Lillie, left on Saturday for Vancouver, en route for London, Ontario, where Miss Lillie's marriage to L.A.C. Kenneth Armstrong Coleman of Toronto will take place at St. Luke's Church, Crumlin, on June 7. Mrs. Lillie and her daughter will motor east, accompanied by Mrs. Lillie's sister, Mrs. C. D. J. Christie, and daughter, Mrs. J. D. Christie. Mr. Lillie accompanied them as far as Vancouver.

Miss Muriel Creech, whose marriage will take place in June, was the guest of honor at a meeting of the Ladies' Aid Evening Branch of the Reformed Episcopal Church at the home of Mrs. E. P. Creech, Balfour Avenue, recently. During the evening the bride-elect was presented with a beautiful Crown Devon vase from the members. Those present were Mesdames F. Shandley, S. Martin, G. Portingale and the Misses H. Newbury, L. Hawthorne, M. Hawthorne, F. Turner, A. White, D. White, A. Dunn and E. Hutchings.

The choir of the First United Church were the guests of Rev. Hugh A. and Mrs. McLeod at a social evening held at 1900 Belmont Avenue Thursday evening. Games were indulged in under direction of Miss Charlotte Crawford. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Miss Mae Simpson and Miss Carol Menzies presiding at the tea and coffee urns. Miss Margaret Freeman on behalf of the choir, thanked Mr. and Mrs. McLeod for their kindness in inviting the choir for such a pleasant evening.

Miss Florence Atchison, a bride-elect of the near future, was the guest of honor at a strawberry social held by the choir of the First Baptist Church Thursday evening. Rev. G. A. Reynolds, on behalf of the choir, presented Miss Atchison with a Sheffield silver rose bowl with matching candlesticks and expressed the good wishes of those present, coupled with their regret at the loss of a valuable member of the choir. Games were under the direction of Mrs. E. Lee and refreshments were served by Miss Isabel Atchison, assisted by Mrs. H. Jackson and Mrs. E. Hull.

Among Victorians at Qualicum Beach Hotel for the upper island golf championship, over the holiday week-end were: Mr. Wm. Sylvester, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ferguson, Mr. H. Young, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. M. Foot, Mr. and Mrs. John Riddell, Mr. J. W. Ruggles, Dr. W. T. Barrett, Dr. J. W. Lennox, Dr. Thos. McPherson, Dr. M. J. Keys, Mr. Art Balcorn, Mr. A. E. Osborough, Miss Mildred Jones, Miss E. MANSE WEDDING—Sergt. Pilot Walter Reginald Stipe, R.C.A.F., and his bride, the former Miss Mary Stewart Wells, leaving the Metropolitan Church Manse, on Friday after their marriage.

Weddings

ROACH—O'NEILL
White stocks and snapdragons on the altar and standard baskets of pink, white and blue flowers on the chancel steps formed the setting for the pretty wedding at St. John's Church on Friday evening at 8.30 when Rev. George Biddle united in marriage Eileen, a second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Norman O'Neill, 20 San Jose Avenue, and Mr. John Lindley Roach, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Roach, Albany Road. Mr. Ian Galliford presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length frock of white net over taffeta with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and a ruffled net skirt. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a net halo with orange blossoms, and Sweetheart roses, sweet peas and carnations, showered with swainsons, composed the bridal bouquet. She also carried a small white Bible which had been carried by the groom's mother at her wedding.

Mrs. S. E. Menzies was her sister's matron of honor in a frock of dusky rose with a tight-fitting velvet bodice and a very full taffeta skirt; and the bridesmaid was another sister, Miss Margaret O'Neill, in a frock of turquoise blue net over taffeta. Their doll hats matched their dresses, and they carried Victorian posies of mixed flowers. Mr. Bert Ralfe was best man; and Mr. John O'Neill, the bride's cousin, and Mr. Robert Tuthill showed the guests to pews marked with posies of pink and white roses, tied with white tulle.

During a reception in Terry's Rose Room, the bride and groom stood under an arch of pink and white roses and ferns between baskets of early summer flowers. Mrs. O'Neill welcomed the guests in a floor-length jacket dress of Burgundy sheer with black and pink accessories, assisted by Mrs. Roach in a floral printed frock with beige accessories. Mrs. O'Neill wore gardenias and Mrs. Roach pink rosebuds.

Supper was served from a table on which stood the three-tiered wedding cake, with a crystal bowl of white carnations and stocks as centrepiece, flanked with tall white tapers in crystal holders.

For a honeymoon trip to Harri-son Hot Springs, the bride left in a navy blue and white ensemble with a corsage bouquet of gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Roach will make their home in Vancouver.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. Ken Lawson, Nanaimo, and Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Menzies, Vancouver.

The many gifts included a presentation picture from the bride's associates in Spencer's, a chime clock from her former business associates, and a smoker's cabinet and magazine rack from the government lands department, where the groom was employed before joining the army.

TEMPLE—MASTERS
At the Metropolitan Church Manse, Johnson Street, on Saturday, Rev. A. E. Whitehouse, D.D., united in marriage Marguerite, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Masters, Coronation Avenue, and Staff-Sergeant James Temple, CHEERS FOR HER MAJESTY—Queen Mary of England, who celebrated her 74th birthday today receives the cheers of some of her most loyal subjects, soldier patients at a Gloucestershire convalescent home. The Queen Mother has been residing in the West Country since the war started, and maintains a steady schedule of visits to badly bombed cities, rest centres and army units.

Tells of Y.W.C.A. Development

The development of the Y.W.C.A. and the broadening of its work was sketched by Miss Julia Capen, of the leadership division of the Y.W.C.A. national board in New York, at a largely attended membership tea held in the association building on Friday afternoon.

The "Y" was now an important social agency, organized and run by a special technique. It was inter-racial and interdenominational. Now, more than ever, it was imperative that its work should continue, and the hatreds and barriers which were being fostered by many bigoted groups must be broken down.

Miss Capen emphasized the importance of leadership and the obligation and duty of individual club member to her group, or committee to board and of board to the club girl. The volunteer leader was no less important than the board or committee member, she went on, and pointed out that it was both a privilege and a duty for women to do their share in helping to build up a better community life, which in an even broader sense would be a factor in a happier peace.

NEW MEMBERS

Dr. Olga Jardine, president of the board, who introduced Miss Capen, expressed a hearty vote of thanks to her and told the guests of the helpful advice and splendid leadership given by Miss Capen during the leadership group conferences on Thursday and Friday morning.

Tea was served in the dining room, where the attractively arranged table was presided over by Mrs. F. A. Lindsay and Mrs. E. E. Wootton, members of the board assisting with serving.

Victoria Lodge No. 83, Daughters of St. George, met recently. The worthy president, Mrs. L. Morgan, welcomed the worthy district deputy, Mrs. E. Burke. Nomination and election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. L. Morgan; vice-president, Mrs. E. Lomas; first conductor, Mrs. M. Smith; second conductor, Mrs. C. Fairservice; inside guard, Mrs. R. Williams; outside guard, Mrs. J. Brien; auditors, Mrs. J. Burnett, Mrs. H. Penketh and Mrs. A. Hooper. Mr. Hubert Lethaby spoke on the War Loan. All members going to Vancouver to give names to Mrs. A. Harris, G 7073, by next meeting, Wednesday, June 4 at 8 p.m. Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Williams and Mrs. Barnes.

Ypres, April 22-24, 1915

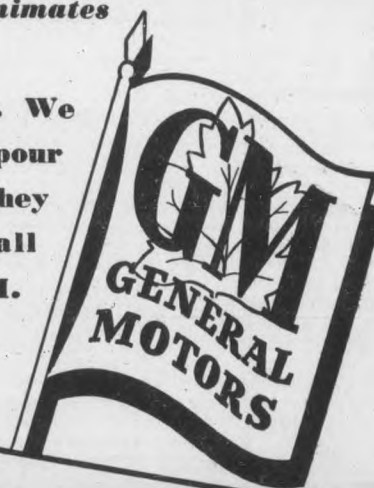

In this famous drawing from Punch, Sir Bernard Partridge commemorated for all time the heroic stand of Canada's First Division against poison gas and overwhelming odds. As our soldiers held the line then, so Canada must hold it now.

TO US - THE TORCH IS THROWN

A generation ago, from Flanders Fields, our soldier dead threw us their torch to hold it high, as they had held it from Second Ypres to Mons, from Somme to Passchendaele.

For four years they kept their rendezvous with death. They knew no peers but the living who served with them, and their spirit so animated the Canadian Corps that it became the spearhead of victory. That same spirit animates our troops today.

We hold the torch. We cannot do less than pour out our dollars as they pour out their all

Sgt. Pilot Bonn C. Smith, 25, Vancouver.

L.A.C. Roger Williamson, 22, Edmonton.

P.O. Sears and L.A.C. Wilde, instructor and student pilot respectively, were killed during Friday night flying exercises when their Harvard training plane crashed near No. 34 R.A.F. service flying training school at Medicine Hat, Alta.

NIGHT ACCIDENTS

L.A.C. Bolton of the No. 10 service flying training school at Dauphin, northwestern Manitoba, was engaged in night routine flying when at 3 a.m. yesterday his Harvard plane apparently spiralled to the ground two miles northwest of the Dauphin relief landing field. Officials of the No. 2 air command said cause of the accident was not determined immediately.

The No. 2 air command also told how L.A.C. Rowe was fatally injured in a similar accident 15 miles northwest of the No. 4 service flying training school at Saskatoon. L.A.C. Rowe's machine flew into the ground two miles northwest of the Vanscoy, Sask., relief landing field late Saturday night.

B.C. DEATHS

The fourth accident involved a private plane which crashed near Chilliwack in the Fraser Valley. The two men aboard the plane were Whyte and McMullen, both of Vancouver.

Whyte is reported to have been piloting the plane, an Alexander model powered with a 45-horsepower motor and owned by Neil Coult of nearby Sardis. He was practicing landings and takeoffs at the Chilliwack airport and watchers said he overshot the field.

The little ship, its motor roaring wide open in a desperate attempt to gain altitude, apparently stalled and went into its fatal dive from 300 feet.

Sgt. Pilot Smith, an instructor, and L.A.C. Williamson, a student, died when their Tiger Moth machine from the R.C.A.F. Elementary Flying Training School at Lethbridge, smashed to the ground 13 miles south of Lethbridge on Saturday.

W.A. to Army and Navy will hold a special business meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Welsh, 1251 Rudlin St.

The R.C.A.S.C. Auxiliary will meet on Tuesday evening at 8 at Mrs. H. C. Greer's, 1394 Esquimalt Road.

The Second Mile Club met at the home of Mrs. G. V. Bishop, the president, Mrs. A. D. Fuggle, in the chair. The devotional was given by Mrs. Pease. Mrs. McGill read a chapter of the study book, "Transforming Friendship." Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mesdames Richardson, Slater, Stout and Porter.

Big Celebration
At Nanaimo

NANAIMO (CP)—An exhibition of gas treatment by squads of decontamination units and a military parade highlighted May 24 celebrations here.

Despite attractions at Port Alberni and Cumberland, hundreds from up-island attended the event with other hundreds from points south and the lower mainland.

All units training at Camp Nanaimo were represented in the military parade which wound through the streets. In the gas treatment exhibition trucks rushed up soldiers garbed for varying types of decontamination work.

Placing of the decorated floats in the parade saw the Bastion Chapter, I.O.E., take first place; two Women's Ambulance Corps, second, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, third. Special prizes went to two May Queen floats by the Elks and the Nanaimo Aquatic Club.

During the coronation ceremony of Lillian Grounds as May Queen, an appeal was made for the Victory War Loan by Mayor H. B. Harrison, who declared such a celebration as today's could only be staged behind the defensive protection of the Empire's armed forces.

A vaudeville show in the afternoon, presented by Frank Scott and his troop of artists from Vancouver, attracted 1,200 people. Danny Andrew was outstanding in Scottish numbers.

In the evening, lacrosse and motorcycle races were featured.

'MAN BETRAYED'
ON PLAZA BILL

The transition from a western hero to a "modern" is a welcome one for John Wayne. In Republic's "A Man Betrayed," current at the Plaza Theatre, Wayne is seen as a small town lawyer who wins renown for himself as a two-fisted gang-buster in a big city.

It's not that Wayne has any aversion to western roles. Far from it! He won fame in such characterizations. But in his last three films, the actor has been given opportunities to do something different. "The Long Voyage Home" presented him as a Swedish sailor on a British tramp steamer, and "Seven Sinners," in which he was co-starred with Marlene Dietrich, he was seen as a navy officer. His first chance to portray a fighting attorney is in "A Man Betrayed."

'BRIGHAM YOUNG'
ON RIO SCREEN

"Brigham Young," by Louis Bromfield, was produced on a magnificent scale by Darryl F. Zanuck. The picture, which opens at the Rio Theatre, is spectacular and grippingly dramatic. It has an exceptional cast starring Tyrone Power with Linda Darnell in the leading feminine role and Dean Jagger portraying Brigham Young.

With the great Mormon migration as its theme, the film gets off to a tremendous start. The massacre at Nauvoo, Ill., and the heroic trek westward are depicted with thrilling realism.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Loaded with swift-paced gags and several brand new hit tunes, Paramount's new comedy with music, "Road to Zanzibar," is currently at the Capitol Theatre. Starring Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour, three of the screen's best entertainers, the film is easily one of the funniest that has come along this season.

Not since that scintillating Preston Sturges film, "The Lady Eve," have reviewers laughed so hard and so often. Crosby and Hope have a knack for delivering a gag line that is just perfection, and Dorothy Lamour is still one of our favorite eye-fills with an extremely pleasant voice and a beguiling manner. She doesn't wear a sarong in this, film fans, but never fear, for she does wear something even more exciting—a dress made of fern leaves.

Prof. Hoffman to Hold
Summer Singing School

In response to many requests Prof. J. B. Hoffman has decided to hold a summer course in voice culture, sight-singing and in ear-training from June 5 to July 30 in his studio, 617 Fort Street. These courses consist of 15 lessons, in classes or individual, and they embrace, in condensed form, all the essentials of voice production such as correct breathing, tone-placing, technique, diction, etc., up to the interpretation of songs.

This marks the sixth year since Prof. Hoffman inaugurated summer courses in Victoria and they have proved so successful that he

Bowes' Revue on Capitol Stage

A gay and talented bevy of youngsters will be introduced by Stan Early to Capitol Theatre audiences on Wednesday and Thursday next. It is Major Bowes' all-star revue of 1941, pick of recent popular radio broadcasts, in a rare combination of variety and novelty acts embracing the Four Harmonica Esquires, the Three Brandt Sisters, Bob Parrish, baritone; Dancing Danny Drayson, the Charms, acrobatics de luxe, and others which go to make up 10 acts of entertainment.

On the screen the feature picture will be "Scotland Yard," with Nancy Kelly and Edmund Gwenn.

'LADY WITH RED
HAIR' FEATURED

Miriam Hopkins wanted to grow old and become a mermaid but her studio has nixed all that and killed John Drew in the bargain.

Miriam remains vividly red-headed, sweetly dressed as Mrs. Leslie Carter in Warner Bros. "Lady With Red Hair," the picture opening tomorrow at the Dominion.

CADET SHOWING
'ARGENTINE WAY'

Rhumbas, songs, glamorous stars and romance: you'll find all that and more in "Down Argentine Way," 20th Century-Fox hit in Technicolor, now at the Cadet Theatre. A spectacular musical extravaganza, it has Don Ameche, Betty Grable and torrid-voiced Carmen Miranda heading a brilliant cast.

Expertly blending irresistible music and laughter, the fine story of "Down Argentine Way" has handsome Don Ameche romancing beautiful Betty Grable in glamorous Buenos Aires. Charlotte Greenwood, J. Carrol Naish, Henry Stephenson and many other bright names are seen in fine featured roles.

decided to include them permanently in the yearly routine of his school of music. Those who wish to take any of these courses this year will enroll before June 1, so that lesson hours can be arranged.

NELSON EDDY
STARS AT YORK

The York Theatre starting today is showing two of the most lavishly produced movies that have ever been made. They are both classified as top-rate film fare.

The first of these is a revival of the never-to-be-forgotten "Rose Marie," which stars the famous romantic team of Jeannette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy. This film is worth seeing over and over again.

The second spectacle on the bill is the historic and adventurous "Suez." It stars Tyrone Power and Loretta Young, with a strong supporting cast in the story of the beginning of the Suez Canal and how this wonderful engineering masterpiece was eventually realized.

'HE STAYED FOR
BREAKFAST' HERE

Loretta Young, who shot to a new fame with her comedy role in Columbia's "The Doctor Takes a Wife," and Melvyn Douglas, who already possesses a distinguished record as one of Hollywood's most gifted farceurs, are the new comedy starring combination of Columbia's "He Stayed for Breakfast," which opens today at the Oak Bay Theatre.

Set in a Paris background, the new comedy hilariously describes the romance of a politically-conscious cafe waiter and the estranged wife of a pompous banker. Hailed as one of the season's most delightful love-on-the-run laugh-fests, "He Stayed for Breakfast" was directed by Alexander Hall with a supporting cast which includes Alan Marshal, Eugene Pallette and Una O'Connor.

'VIRGINIA' OPENS
AT THE ATLAS

Smoothly blending stirring drama and bright comedy, Paramount's new Technicolor production, "Virginia," is presented today at the Atlas Theatre, with Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray in the starring roles. Featuring Stirling Hayden, young screen newcomer, in an important role, the picture tells the exciting story of a modern Southern girl, reared in the North, who comes face to face with the problem of having to choose between the North and the South, romantically speaking.

In Victoria 17 Years Ago

Hood's Visit Here Was Exciting Time

Sinking of H.M.S. Hood brings to the mind of Victorians the visit of the famous British battle-cruiser to this port 17 years ago.

It was on June 21, 1924, that the Hood, flagship of a special service squadron which included the battlecruiser Repulse and the light cruisers Delhi, Dauntless, Danae, Dragon and Adelaide, reached Victoria, spending three days here before shifting to Vancouver.

The Hood was the flagship of Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick L. Field, K.C.B., C.M.G.

Men of the navy were given a great reception by Victorians and were feted and functioned during the whole of their three-day stay. Aboard the ships, particularly the Hood, people of the city were given a signal demonstration of British sea might. Every school child in town went aboard her in an organized inspection.

The special service squadron was welcomed off Sheringham Point by H.M.C.S. Patricia and a naval party on board with Commodore Walter Hove, C.B.E., and Commander C. T. Beard, officer commanding the Esquimalt naval station at the time. Airplanes from the Jericho beach air station soared overhead and Ss. Princess Charlotte took out a party of excursionists to greet them. Dallas waterfront swarmed with people as the whole town turned out for the welcome.

EXCITING DAY

The following description was given of the excitement in the city:

"Work in downtown offices and stores practically ceased as soon as the news spread with lightning rapidity that the fleet was in sight. Even workers putting last-minute touches to the decorations threw down their tools to seek a point of vantage to see great grey armada pulling into harbor. Customers piled out of the stores. Automobiles and sight-seeing cars were at a premium. Telephone rings were unheeded as workers rushed to the roofs to gaze through field glasses at the battleships. Nearly every roof of every building in the business section of the city contained a knot of spectators striving to get a sight of the ships. The streets were deserted. Excited children were there in great numbers all armed with flags and decorations."

TOO BIG FOR DOCK

The Hood docked at Ogden Point, but her 860-foot length jutted well out beyond the end of the 700-foot pier. And she docked with less fuss than some skippers make about docking a tugboat.

Victorians took much interest in the eight 15-inch guns and the large number of smaller arms. In each turret were two 15-inch guns, each 60 feet long and weighing 100 tons. The shells thrown by the guns weighed 1,920 pounds and would travel 20 miles on a full charge of 400 pounds of cordite. When the shell left the muzzle of the gun it was traveling at 2,600 feet per second.

The turret which housed the guns weighed complete 600 tons. The front was made of 15-inch steel, while the overhead was 11 inches thick. The turret revolved on a base which ran down to the bottom of the ship.

HUGE TURRETS

It took four officers and 74 men to operate each turret in time of action. Eight men were actually in the turret when the guns were fired, the rest being in the housing looking after ammunition and other details. The operation of firing the gigantic guns could be performed twice every minute. It cost $1,500 every time a service round was discharged from each turret. Each gun had a service limit of about 200 rounds.

All eight 15-inch guns could be fired from almost any angle at any one time.

The greatest horsepower ever placed in a ship was in the engine bed of the Hood. It reached the enormous total of 157,000 horsepower and approximately 40,000 horsepower passed through each gearing to a propeller. Each propeller was 17½ feet in diameter and the main shafts were 300 feet long and weighed 100 tons each. The total weight of the machinery in the hull was 5,000 tons. To provide the enor-

HOLIDAY TOLL 30 IN CANADA

By the Canadian Press

The toll of violent deaths throughout Canada during the Victoria Day week-end, first long holiday week-end of the year, was reported at 30 today with airplane crashes and highway traffic accidents each accounting for eight lives.

Ontario's toll of 10 was the highest of any province, while British Columbia's death list totaled three. Altogether 14 were killed in western Canada, where all the air crashes occurred, two mouse steam pressure required for the turbines there were 38 boilers, which held 1,000 tons, or 268,000 gallons of water. The Hood carried 4,000 tons of oil to feed her immense oil-burners.

persons were drowned in Quebec province and four were killed in the Maritimes.

The highway traffic toll was comparatively light in view of the thousands who took to their cars for the first big outing of the year.

Mike Boyko, 14, died in a hospital at Vancouver last night a few hours after he had been crushed under a Great Northern Railway freight train he apparently was trying to board.

Tea to Aid Bombed Children of Britain

The Princess Elizabeth Fund, which was established by Mrs. Eric W. Hamber to aid the children of bombed areas in Great Britain, will benefit by the tea sponsored by the Willows and Monterey Parent-Teacher Association of Oak Bay. Through the kindness of Mrs. R. W. Mayhew the affair is to be held at "Kana-way," 3125 Beach Drive, Uplands, on Wednesday, June 4.

Mrs. T. Lumsden of the Monterey P.T.A. and Mrs. G. Bewley of the Willows P.T.A. are joint conveners. Mrs. W. R. Gunn and Mrs. Fred Wright have planned a program of songs and dances for the entertainment of the guests. Members of the Oak Bay United Troop of Boy Scouts have kindly consented to direct parking of cars. Tea will be served from 3 till 5:30. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Monterey and Willows Parent-Teacher Associations.

The social meeting of the W.A. to the P.P.C.L.I. will be held this evening at the home of Mrs. Glen Holland, 355 Armit Road, at 8, with a shower for bingo, miscellaneous and sewing stalls at the garden party.

By PETE SALLAWAY

GOLF HAS COME a long way since Charles Evans ruled the fairways, but still he can't understand why shotmakers cram bags full of clubs.

Chick Evans' theory is that with fewer sticks, you use them oftener... get to master them.

Evans recalls borrowing three of the four weapons with which he won his first tournament as an 18-year-old kid in 1908.

"The putter was mine," he smiles. "The brassie, lofter and midiron were loaned to me."

"In those days, we thought of clubs in terms of a full shot half shot, quarter shot and putt. The lofter was the quarter shot club."

Evans prevailed in the United States open and amateur of 1916 with only seven clubs.

Practically all the better players could now make good use of more clubs than the 14 permitted. Until the limit was put on, they used as many as 20.

They all use the full swing and let the clubhead do the work, which accounts for such an average as Ben Hogan boasts for 49 consecutive rounds—70.44.

Leland Stanford MacPhail, an old boss player, got the idea for the Brooklyn baseball safety cap from the very light fabric skull cap worn under the silk cap by jockeys.

No fewer than 25 models were used before the present practical device was adopted.

A plastic or fabric shield was inserted in a pocket in all the trial caps. Models differed in the size and shape of the shield and the method by which the shield was fastened in the cap.

Countless protective devices submitted in the past were unsatisfactory because they were heavy, cumbersome and unsightly.

Serious injury to Joe Medwick, Pee Wee Reese and Hugh Casey of the Brooklyn and first baseman Hassen of the Montreal farm convinced "Larry" MacPhail that further attempts should be made to perfect safety headgear.

Island Baseball

Chemainus Wins Two

Chemainus ball players made four straight victories in the Victoria Senior League yesterday when they spanked the Tillamook Athletics twice at the up-island lot 10 to 0 and 5 to 1. The Chemainus tribe are well out in front of the loop standings.

Naylor worked on the mound for Chemainus in the first game and had little trouble through the nine innings. Louie Leonard opened for the Tillamooks but after allowing 10 runs in five innings he was chased in favor of Chuck Rowe.

In the second game Berkeley hurled for Chemainus with Pratt, young second division player from Port Alberni, working for the Tillamooks. This was much the better game of the two and would have been a lot closer except for a couple of bad plays by the Victoria team around second base.

Tillamooks played without Al Condon their regular catcher. Clanton was the receiver for the first game with Charlie Strouger working behind the plate in the second.

Chemainus will make its first appearance of the season here on Saturday in two games against the Eagles, starting at 2.30 and 6.

HOLIDAY GAMES

Victoria All-Stars made their first appearance of the season in exhibition ball games Saturday and divided a pair of games with Vancouver Diethers. After dropping the morning engagement 11 to 7, the locals rallied to win the afternoon exhibition 13 to 8.

Brand of ball displayed by the clubs was not of the high class variety, with a total of 19 errors being witnessed during the 18 innings. But the exhibitions produced plenty of heavy hitting, with 43 base knocks being witnessed.

Tommy Musgrave, former Victoria hurler, was on the mound for Vancouver in the morning battle, while Stan Davies was the winning pitcher for Victoria in the afternoon.

In the afternoon the first home runs of the season were witnessed with Ray Casey, Victoria third sacker, and Ed Henry, Vancouver catcher, rifling the ball over the centre field fence. In addition Casey picked off a triple, double and single out of six trips to the rubber.

Short scores follow:

Dr. George Bennett of Johns Hopkins Hospital indicated the parts of the jockeys' skull caps which could be eliminated to reduce weight.

But the helmet was too heavy, bulky and conspicuous.
Dr. Walter Dandy, also of Johns Hopkins, suggested plastic material. General manager MacPhail had experimental caps made, using pieces cut out of a flat piece of plastic and inserted in a zipper pocket.

Among objections were difficulties in conforming the flat shield to the shape of the head. The cap weighed too much. It was uncomfortable, hot. There were objections from the standpoint of appearance.

Arrangements were made to mold the plastic shields so as to conform to the shape of the player's head with a reduction in thickness and shape of the shield so as to reduce weight. The zipper was eliminated. The shape of the shield was changed slightly, so that greater protection was given around the temple. The shield was fixed permanently in the cap to prevent it moving out of position.

When models of these caps were obtained, several Brooklyn models were equipped, and very little if any fault could be found.
Pete Reiser's injury further stressed the desirability of the protection.

Tests are still being run on materials for the shield. They will determine whether the shield will be molded from plastic or fabric. They may indicate the desirability of slight changes in the shape and thickness of the shield.

As quickly as these tests are completed, permanent molds will be constructed and caps placed in quantity production.
As Larry MacPhail points out, the main objective is to furnish at nominal cost protective caps to players on sandlots, in schools and in small minor leagues.

The perfected cap will go a long way toward solving the long existing problem of the bean ball.

Fighter Dies Following Bout

EDMONTON (CP)—Fred Taylor, about 22, negro boxer of Gibbons, Alta., died on the ambulance entrance of the University Hospital here Saturday a few hours after he collapsed in the ring in a heavyweight boxing match at Two Hills, about 70 miles northeast of Edmonton. His opponent was George Verenka, 29, of St. Paul, Alta.

Taylor collapsed in the eighth round of the scheduled 10-round fight and artificial respiration was applied in the ring but he failed to regain consciousness.

G. Larue, newspaper publisher and co-promoter with Verenka in the show at Two Hills Friday night, said Verenka was losing the fight "and was going to be knocked out" when two blows downed Taylor.

Larue said Taylor got up after the count of four and went to his own corner, lunging to the floor seconds later.

Roderick Defeats Canadian Fighter

LIVERPOOL (CP)—Ernie Roderick, British and Empire welterweight boxing champion, last night outpointed Ray McIntyre, Canadian middleweight titleholder, in a 10-round match.

The Canadian, now serving in the army, appeared off form and Roderick was an easy winner. The fight was dull until the last two rounds when both boxers opened up.

Round-robin Golf

Paul Runyan Wins

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Runyan came from behind with a sub-par 69 on the seventh and final round to win the $5,000 Goodall round-robin golf tournament yesterday. It was his first major victory since the P.G.A. championship of 1938 and his first triumph of any kind since the Argentine open in the fall of the same year. The victory was worth $1,000 to Runyan.

"Little Poison," who tossed in his two best rounds when it would do him the most good, finished the 126 holes of the fourth annual Goodall circus 23 shots over par. In spite of that poor medal showing, he had a total of 26-plus points, representing the net number of holes he won in his 14 matches.

Runyan finished 10 points ahead of Ghezzi and Gene Sarazen, who tied for second and drew down $650 each.

In fourth place at eight-plus was Ben Hogan, last year's winner, followed by Smith, Little, McSpaden and Tommy Hines. Penna and Goggin, Jimmy Demaret, Dick Metz, Ed (Porky) Oliver, Clayton Heafner and Jimmy Thomson.

Ghezzi returned the best medal score, 502, to Smith's 507 and Sarazen's 509. Runyan, winner with 513, finished fifth last year with 511.

Winnipeg Bombers Suffer Bad Beating

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers, western Canada football champions, fielding a bunch of rookies with a few of the veterans, were soundly trounced 25 to 5 by University of North Dakota Saturday night in an exhibition tilt.

Bombers played without the services of Fritz Hanson, Greg Kabat, Bill Ceretti, Jeff Nicklin, Herb Peschel and Bill Nairn. Most spectacular of the new crop was young Harry Johnson, who played last year in the high school league. Johnson, who looks and runs like Hanson, gave the crowd numerous thrills with his broken field running.

LAWN BOWLING

Lawn bowlers were busy Saturday on all greens in and around Victoria.

In the morning a. the Victoria Club at Beacon Hill, W. S. Turner and F. R. Exham captured the men's doubles, with J. H. Cattroll and T. York runners-up.

The afternoon competition was for mixed rinks, with A. G. Marconin's side carrying off the honors.

At the Burnside Club the annual Empire Cup tournament was played. Three rinks tied for top place, with T. Deveson defeating E. Spencer 8 to 3 in the preliminary playoff, and A. Findlay winning over Deveson in the final 5 to 1.

At the Canadian Pacific greens men's doubles were played, with S. Mitchell and A. Edwards finishing in first place and F. G. Hood and R. Husband second.

Albions Score Win In Friendly Cricket

In a friendly cricket match played Saturday afternoon at Beacon Hill the Albions defeated the Five C's 59 to 50.

Les Gibbons starred for the winners, carrying his bat for 36 runs. He knocked up five fours and a six. Only other batsman to reach double figures was Quainton of the Five C's with 13 runs.

Veteran Percy Payne was in great bowling form for the C's, taking five wickets for only two runs.

Average top speed of American miles per hour; average in 1941 built bombers in 1938 was 224 is 295.

Eastern Race Meet Canceled

TORONTO (CP)—Directors of Thorncliffe Racing and Breeding Association announced that the annual spring meet at Thorncliffe Park, which was to open today, has been canceled because of the current dispute between the Thoroughbred Breeders' Association and the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association, governing body of racing in Ontario.

The dispute which resulted in cancellation of the meet was caused by failure of the I.C.R.A. to recognize Ryland New of Oakville, Ont., as the breeders' representative on the I.C.R.A. board.

The breeders refused to race their horses at Woodbine Park Friday and Saturday, the last two days of Woodbine's spring meet. As a result only horses entered in the two days of racing were from stables not affiliated with the T.B.A.

Officials when questioned last night said there was no change in the situation in so far as there was any likelihood of the Thorncliffe track opening Monday or any other day this week.

Bill Dale Will Run at Berkeley

PULLMAN, WASH. (AP)—Eight Washington State college track stars, headed by Capt. Bill Dale of Victoria, B.C., and the sophomore express, Pat Haley of Trail, B.C., will compete in the Pacific Coast Conference track meet next week-end at Berkeley, Calif., coach Jack Weiershauser said yesterday.

Dale will seek his third consecutive coast conference championship in the half-mile, at which distance he holds the northern division record of 1.51.5. Jim Lang, Dale's running mate in the middle distances, also will be making his third appearance in the coast meet.

RICHMOND WINS
NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—Richmond Farmers today lead the Inter-city Box Lacrosse League standings with a full game advantage over New Westminster Adanacs whom they defeated 20 to 7 in a regular schedule game here Saturday night.

The game, first of a series to be played in this Vancouver Island city during the summer, was witnessed by about 1,000 Empire Day celebrants here.

ENGLISH SOCCER REPLAY
LONDON (CP)—Replay of the soccer cup final between Arsenal and Preston North End, scheduled for Saturday last, was deferred to May 31 because arrangements could not be completed in time.

The original match, which ended in a 1 to 1 tie, was played at Wembley Stadium May 10. The replay is to be somewhere in the provinces.

Conn Needs Knockout

Fights Buddy Knox

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Threatened with the sudden death of his heavyweight title dreams unless he wins decisively, Billy Conn may turn slugger tonight as he seeks to smash down Buddy Knox, unsung Dayton, O., boxer, in a final 15-round pre-Louis test before a home town crowd.

This transition from master boxer into fistie dynamiter became vitally necessary for Conn through an ultimatum by Mike Jacobs which virtually ordered Billy to win by a knockout or sacrifice his rights to a title crack at champion Joe Louis next month in New York.

Jacobs, promoter of the Conn-Louis fight scheduled for June 18, issued his ultimatum in the midst of the noisy aftermath which followed Louis' controversial victory over Buddy Baer at Washington Friday.

Baer's surprising showing touched off loud demands to replace Conn with Baer in the June shot at Louis.

Fights Friday

veteran Victoria scrapper who will appear on Friday night's outdoor card at the Cycledrome, corner Douglas Street and Burnside Road, in a bout against Roy Duval. Parker, member of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, recently returned to the city from eastern Canada and is reported to be in good shape. In addition to the boxing, wrestling and bike races will be offered. The show will start at 8.

GOLF WINNERS

In the mixed foursomes held at the Victoria Golf Club on Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. G. Musgrave were the winners with a score of 88-19—69. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Leach were runners-up with 91-18—73.

Military Parade In Nanaimo

All units in training at Camp Nanaimo were represented on Empire Day in a military parade through the streets of the up-island city. The big military parade drew hundreds of visitors from Victoria and Vancouver.

Another highlight of the day was an exhibition of gas defences by squads of decontamination units, with the troops appropriately clad for different types of anti-gas work.

Flying Cards Sweep Two With Pittsburgh

Lose Rookie Star Crespi With Injury

St. Louis Cards, setting a breathless pace in the National League, opened a new series against Chicago Cubs today with a patched infield, the result of an injury to their sensational rookie second baseman, Frank Crespi.

Crespi suffered a fractured finger yesterday as the flying Cards were sweeping a double-header with Pittsburgh Pirates by scores of 6 to 4 and 4 to 3, and probably will be out for a fortnight.

This will supply the test of whether the Cards are sufficiently strong in replacements to shake off an occasional casualty and go right on blowing down the opposition.

The injury forces Southworth to shift Jimmy Brown from third to second, a position at which he does not excel, and to install Steve Mesner at third.

Cleveland Indians, threatening to make a runaway of the American League race, went bowling merrily along to their fifth straight victory as 20,000 Sunday fans watched Bob Feller shut out St. Louis Browns 6 to 0 and rack up his ninth victory of the year. The demon young fireballer fanned 13 and didn't allow a hit until the fifth.

Old Lefty Grove inched nearer his lifetime goal of 300 victories as he notched No. 296 at the expense of the New York Yankees 10 to 3. The great southpaw gave up only seven hits and would have scored a shutout if Jimmy Foss had not dropped Charlie Keller's pop foul for the third out in the fourth inning.

Keller, given a life, then hit a home run with two on.

Chicago White Sox, after having gone scoreless for 26 straight innings, burst loose with a seven-run rally in the seventh frame at Detroit to knock Hal Newhouser from the hill and win 7 to 3.

The Philadelphia Athletics swept their three-game series with Washington by jumping on the eminent knuckle-baller, Dutch Leonard, for five runs in the eighth. The score was 7 to 3.

With Joe Medwick dropped down to seventh place in the batting order, the Brooklyn made the most of five hits to beat the Phillies 8 to 4. Young Pete Reiser's sixth-inning home run with the bases filled was the blow that ruined Ike Pearson.

Charley Root bested Paul Derringer in a tense duel as Chicago Cubs nosed out Cincinnati 3 to 2 in the ninth. Billy Nicholson's double, followed by a sacrifice, and Charley George's single, broke it up. Ernie Lombardi's home run provided both Cincinnati runs.

Boston Braves trotted out 22 players, but still lost to the New York Giants 6 to 2.

COAST LEAGUE

If even the best baseball teams must relax and release on occasion, credit a trio of Pacific Coast Leaguers with knowing how to pick the spots.

These three—San Francisco, Oakland and Hollywood—all dropped the closing half of their double bills yesterday but not before each had won for the fourth time in a week to clinch its seven-game series.

Oakland, which first blanked Seattle 3 to 0, and then went down 12 to 3, provided the sharp contrast between victory and defeat.

Developments followed a similar pattern at San Francisco, where the host Seals lost to San Diego 8 to 4, on 13 walks after Tom Seals, the left-hander from Detroit, had pitched a 3 to 2 five-hitter.

Hollywood stood off a ninth frame rally to nip Portland 8 to 7 in its series decider, but collapsed early in falling to a 7 to 5 subsequent defeat.

High-riding Sacramento, as usual escaping the general trend, twice spanked Los Angeles, 12 to 6 and 4 to 3, for a 6 to 1 series edge.

Still Seeking Theatre Permit

Odeon Theatres (of Canada) Limited are continuing their efforts to secure permission to erect the picture house they planned in Victoria and construction of which was blocked by new federal building restrictions, according to a letter received by Mayor Andrew McGavin today.

The communication was addressed to the mayor in reply to his earlier suggestions the theatre make available a comfort station for the public in the theatre district.

"We are very anxious to co-operate with you in any way," the letter said in part.

"However, we have not yet received permission from the federal government to build, despite the fact that we have pointed out the need in Victoria of a new theatre, both because of population growth and because no new downtown theatre has been built in 30 years. We have also reminded the government of the commitments we made, all of which were entered into prior to the budget speech, but to date permission has not been granted," it added.

Ralph Matthews, rally committee chairman, announced today that a military band will play outside the theatre from 7.30 until 8.15, when the meeting will be officially opened.

The Royal Canadian Air Force band will be in the orchestra pit at 7.30 to give a program of music. This band also will be heard in several numbers during the meeting.

J. W. Spencer, chairman of the Victoria division of the Victory Loan campaign, will preside.

There will be dances and music by the Highland Girls Pipe Band. Peggy Walton, here from New York, and Thomas Crabbe will sing. The chief address will be by Bruce Hutchison. The girls' drill team will perform to music played by the R.C.A.F. band.

Victory Loan canvassers will start on June 2 seeking subscriptions.

ETHEL JAMES HEADS TEACHERS

Miss Ethel James was re-elected president of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Music Teachers' Association by acclamation last week at the annual meeting of the branch.

Other officers chosen for the coming year were Dr. J. E. Watson, honorary president; Miss Gwendoline Harper, vice-president; Miss Noel Smith, recording secretary; Miss Florence Phillimore, corresponding secretary; Eric Edwards, treasurer, and Miss Marion Roberts, Miss Beatrice Griffin, Reginald Cox and Oliver Stout, members of the executive.

Miss James and Mr. Cox were appointed delegates to the B.C. Provincial Council. They will attend the annual meeting of the council in Victoria on July 8. Conditions during the past year had been satisfactory, Miss James said in reviewing the activities of the association. The president thanked those who had helped in the association's year effort, as a result of which $62.50 had been sent to the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Miss James reported that a representative committee from the association and the festival board had voiced regret at a meeting on Tuesday at the loss sustained by the profession, students and public in the discontinuance of the musical festival. She said it was hoped that public demand would enable the movement to be started again and that adequate financial backing would be found.

The chairman of the committee for the convention of the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Associations, Mr. Cox, reported on progress of the local and Vancouver committees. The convention will be held from July 8 to 11 in the Empress Hotel.

Miss James announced that there will be another concert in aid of the Red Cross on June 6 at the home of Mrs. W. A. Luney, 630 Foul Bay Road. The artists will be Mrs. W. A. Jameson, Miss Maquinn Daniels, Miss Dorothy Francis and Miss Noel Smith.

American Athletes See U.S. in War

Through brilliant showings of British Columbia athletes during their terms at Washington State College over the past few years, a Canadian tradition has been developed at the institution. The popularity of the athletes has given the word "Canada" a bigger meaning than might otherwise be and has popularized the Dominion's war effort over there.

Archie McKinnon, athletic director of the Victoria Y.M.C.A., said that this fact struck him forcibly while at the P.N.W. track and field championships held last week at Pullman.

The "Canadian tradition" or the ability of Canadian athletes to gain outstanding recognition each year originated with the Orr brothers of Vancouver, Lee and Jack, and had been carried on by Bill Dale of Victoria and Pat Haley, the six-foot four-inch comet from Trail.

United States athletes, McKinnon said, expect the United States to be fighting alongside Britain any day now. They are convinced that it is only a matter of time until the U.S. enters and they are quite confident the Empire will win.

The "Y" coach made the trip to Washington with Vic Dale, brother of Bill. He returned home full of praise of American hospitality. According to Archie, Bill Dale is highly regarded at Pullman. Captain of the college track team, the Victoria boy is getting good grades in his studies and because of his all-round ability is regarded at the college as a grand boy.

COMFORT STATION BID RECOMMENDED

Acceptance of the tender of Luney Bros. Ltd. for the construction of a public convenience on Fiddler's Green, immediately behind the City Hall, was included in recommendations drafted by the public works committee today for this afternoon's City Council meeting.

The bid was the lowest of several received for the job. It called for expenditure of $4,985.

The committee today also decided to ask the council to purchase a $455 "traf-o-line" street marker and instructed the city engineer to stencil streets with signs supporting the sale of Victory Loans.

During the meeting the members heard objections from L. Cumming, Linden Avenue, over the type of construction permitted in the locality of his home. He referred specifically to new duplex and apartment type structures. The chairman explained no action could be taken on the question without a change in the building by-law.

PARACHUTE FABRIC RECEIVED HERE

A piece of green fabric cut from the remains of a German parachute and singed around one edge where the parachute caught fire has been received from Scotland by Mrs. M. S. Hughes of Esquimalt.

The material is made from wood and not of silk as is the case with British parachutes. The Nazis have been using both green and white parachutes, the former being less easily visible in a clear sky, according to some military observers.

With the scrap of German parachute, Mrs. Hughes received a slip from a Scottish newspaper telling of the heroism with which residents of the Clydeside faced a recent raid.

"Wounded ex-servicemen of two war faced fearlessly a long inhospital, and Mons veterans in the local Home Guard dashed to help in the rescue work when the servants' quarters caught fire," the paper states. "The more serious surgical cases were removed to the basement shelters under the hospital. But any who were ill and able at all responded to the call for volunteers and cheered when they heard particularly heavy bursts of A.A. gunfire."

"From the second story of a damaged Clydebank tenement, rescue workers brought down safely a man and his dog. The man did not know till then that the building had been hit. He had slept through the raid."

New Headquarters For Pro-Recs

Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, announced today a new provincial headquarters for the Pro-Rec organization has been leased in Vancouver. It will be located in the Western Sports Centre, corner of Dunsmuir and Beatty Streets, and will consolidate former quarters as an economy measure.

The minister said Pro-Rec this summer will offer a new "Fitness First" program to supplement outdoor sports.

Obituaries

MRS. A. GALBRAITH DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Jane Catherine Galbraith of 568 Rithet Street, a native daughter of Victoria who had lived here all her life, died suddenly at the home of her son, Stewart A. Galbraith, 2037 McDonald Street, Vancouver, on Saturday, aged 64 years.

Mrs. Galbraith was the widow of Angus Galbraith, who died here on March 20, and was on her way to Ottawa to spend the summer with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Johnson, when she had the fatal seizure. She was a lifelong member of the First Baptist Church, and was a sister of the late Rev. James Strachan.

The remains will arrive tomorrow morning at McCall Bros. Funeral Chapel where Rev. G. A. Reynolds will conduct funeral service on Wednesday at 2; interment at Colwood.

OSWALD BARTON CALLED TO REST

Aswald Herbert Courtney Barton, 52, former deputy district registrar of the Supreme and County Courts here, died at the Royal Jubilee Hospital this morning. He had been in ill health for some time.

Appointed to the civil service in 1904 as a clerk in the Provincial Library, he later transferred to the Supreme Court registry prior to 1912 and was appointed deputy registrar on May 4, 1917. Failing health necessitated his resignation in February of last year.

Born in England, he came to Victoria at the age of 10 and had lived here since, at 2620 Belmont Avenue.

In addition to two sons, John Douglas and Thomas of Victoria, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Florence Barton of Vancouver; three sisters, Mrs. Holgate of Vancouver; Mrs. D. Patterson of Victoria; and Miss Kathleen Barton of Calgary, and two brothers, J. Barton of Vancouver, and William Barton of Metchoshin.

Funeral arrangements are in the hands of McCall Brothers' Funeral Home.

SMITH—Funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. R. Fife at McCall Bros' Funeral Home this afternoon for James Edwin Smith of 430 Dallas Road, who died Friday at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was born in England and had lived here for five years. Interment, Royal Oak.

SCRIVEN—Word has been received of the deaths in England, believed in an air raid, of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Scriven, Heathfield, Sussex, England. They are the parents of Mrs. M. Deane, Freeman, formerly of Esquimalt, who left here some years ago to make her home with them. Mr. Scriven was a cousin of the former Bishop Scriven of this diocese, and Mrs. Scriven was a sister of Sir Frank Bridges and a cousin of Admiral E. Evans, R.N.

BUROW—Funeral service for William Thomas Burow, aged 77, of Gerda Road, Colquitz, was held at St. Joseph's Hospital Friday, will be held tomorrow at 3.30 in McCall Brothers' Funeral Chapel. Rev. Canon H. V. Hitchcock will conduct the service. Interment in St. Michael's churchyard, Royal Oak.

Cycle Catches Fire

Desmond McGimsey, 403 Government Street, suffered burns to his arm and the back of his head and lacerations on his leg when his motorcycle caught fire after a collision with an automobile driven by Staff Sgt. Robert L. McMillan, R.C.E., Work Point, at Government and Michigan Streets, Saturday afternoon.

City Constables Robert Davidson and Sam McKenzie attended the accident along with city firemen who extinguished the blazing machine.

ANTI-VIVISECTION

At the board meeting of Canadian Anti-Vivisection Society the secretary read reports on A.R.P. work for animals in Britain, and letters of gratitude for help rendered by specially-raised funds.

Letters of appreciation will be sent to the members of the British Parliament who condemn animal experiments and the use of serums and vaccines.

The chairman drew attention to the highest death rate for diabetes recorded in England since the introduction of insulin.

CLEAR—Funeral service will be held tomorrow morning at 10.30 in McCall Bros' Funeral Home for Frederick T. Clear, who passed away at his residence, 487 Kerr Avenue, on Friday, aged 72 years. Mr. Clear was born in England and had been a resident of this city for the last three years and for many years of Saskatchewan. Rev. William Allan will conduct the service; interment at Royal Oak.

WALKER — Funeral service will be held at McCall Bros' Funeral Home tomorrow afternoon at 2 by Rev. T. G. Griffiths for Mrs. Dorothy Tatton Walker, wife of John Walker of "Avondale," Gordon Head, who died Friday at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, aged 48. Mrs. Walker was born in Surrey, England, and had lived here 22 years. Interment will be at Colwood.

ANDERSON—The funeral of Miss Margaret T. Anderson was held from Knox Presbyterian Church, Sooke, Friday afternoon, Rev. J. Munro officiating, assisted by Rev. Samuel Lundie. Pallbearers: D. Burne, F. Richardson, G. Clark, W. Clark, Pat Welshe and A. E. Brownsey. Burial in the churchyard. Hayward's B.C. Funeral Company was in charge.

WANTS TO HELP GUEST CHILDREN

In duress, the people of Great Britain still have time to think of former friends in Canada and of those who are finding it a little difficult to meet the financial drains incurred in the care of "guest" children, a letter received today by Mayor Andrew McGavin disclosed.

The note, penned by J. Denis de Vitre, retired naval chaplain now living in Berkshire, states: "There was a letter in the Times a few days ago suggesting that it might be useful if some of us helped to keep children who have been evacuated to Canada, and no doubt some of their hosts feel it a bit of a pinch at times. I was chaplain in H.M.S. Grafton when she was at the Esquimalt station in 1902-1904, and we all had a splendid time of it and were almost killed by kindness. If it would be of any use in any case you know on the island, I should be delighted to send you £5 as a very small return for all the kindness I received and others might follow my example."

City firemen extinguished a small fire in machinery of the New Republic, Chinese newspaper, 640 Cormorant Street, early Saturday night. Yesterday at 2.15 they attended a small fire in a woodpile on Centre Road.

Editor Quits to Join Navy

"When you twist the dial of your radio and hear the overseas broadcasts and what they're doing over there you feel you just have to go and that's all there is to it."

That's how Will Dawson, former editor of the West Coast
Advocate, popular Port Alberni weekly, described his decision to go to England and join the Royal Navy. He arrived in Victoria last week aboard his 23-foot, two-masted yawl Poobah, after an eventful 10-day trip down the west coast from Port Alberni, with his pretty wife and Irish terrier, "Ko Ko" as crew. He plans to stay here until he sells the boat, then leave immediately for the United Kingdom aboard a freighter, taking his wife with him.

"People say you can't do these things. But if you want to there's always a way," young Dawson grinned. His wife plans to join the Women's Auxiliary Territorial Service. She was the former Irene Kelsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kelsey, Denman Island. They have been married two years.

"They say it's dangerous to sail down the west coast at night.
We were at San Juan and it was such a beautiful clear night with a fresh westerly blowing, we thought we'd try it.
We didn't have any trouble raising lights, took turn about at the wheel and had a grand trip."

May 12, took a day to Bamfield, then ran into such heavy seas the dinghy disappeared under a roller, shearing the painter clean from the stern. They were five days stormbound at Bamfield. "You could hear the surf pounding five miles away," said Mrs. Dawson.

Dawson was on the Vancouver
Sun staff five years before taking over the editor's chair of the Advocate 18 months ago. A Yorkshire man, he came to Canada 16 years ago, writing feature articles and freelancing before going to the Vancouver paper.

"If you want to learn about human nature and get a philosophical slant on life, work on a country weekly," Dawson advises.
"There's nothing like it. It's the most marvelous experience in the world. Perhaps I'll come back to it some day."

Harry Martin, formerly on the Colonist staff, has taken over Dawson's position on the Advocate.

P. O. Featherstone
Prisoner of War

Pilot Officer Reginald Frank
John Featherstone, earlier reported missing as a result of air operations overseas on May 11, is safe as a prisoner of war, according to word received here today by relatives from his mother and sister in England.

Pilot Officer Featherstone came to Victoria in 1934 with his mother and sister, Betty, to visit Mrs. Featherstone's parents. They remained until early last year, when P.O. Featherstone joined the Royal Canadian Air Force.
His mother and sister returned

ing the second month of the first Great War.

While in Victoria, P.O. Featherstone worked in several investment firms. He is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Robinson of 1365 Rockland Avenue.

Retreat Schedule

Retreat in Parliament Square and marches through the streets of the city are scheduled for every day of this week in connection with the campaign to secure 32,000 recruits in the Dominion by the end of June.

Retreat at 8 p.m., follows: Tonight, 3rd Canadian Scottish
(R.F.); tomorrow evening, 5th
Brigade (R.F.); Wednesday,

Preparing For Army Vote

Capt. W. R. Webster of Victoria, special election officer for British Columbia in charge of active service voting, has conferred in Ottawa with Jules Castonguay, chief Dominion electoral officer.

Capt. Webster said that the purpose of his visit to the capital was to assemble information on the experience of the Dominion government in handling active service voting in elections.

B.C. Wirelessman Awarded M.C.

P.O. W. D. (Bill) Wadsworth,
a member of the Royal Air Force, has been awarded the Military Cross in recognition of gallantry and devotion to duty

during a Nazi air raid, according to word received in Trail, B.C.

The official citation also said that he was further commended for unselfish devotion to duty in the removal of enemy bombs.

P.O. Wadsworth is a son of
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wadsworth, former Trail residents who now live in Victoria. He has two brothers on active service overseas.

P.O. Wadsworth enlisted with the Royal Canadian Artillery at the start of the war but was transferred to the R.A.F. and granted a commission due to his knowledge of wireless. He is the first Trail man to be decorated during the present war and is reported by the British Amateur Radio Magazine to be the first amateur wireless operator in the Empire to receive the military Cross.

Holiday Travel Unusually Heavy

Perfect weather prevailing over the May 24 holiday attracted everybody to the "great outdoors" and, in consequence, travel by steamer, railway, bus and automobile reached something like record proportions over the week-end.

Well over 2,000 people crossed the gulf between Victoria and Vancouver on special marine excursions and hundreds of others patronized the regular boats.

Canadian Pacific steamer Princess Joan carried 770 excursionists to Vancouver on Saturday and Princess Marguerite taking the opposite route, brought 1,700 people here from Vancouver. Travel between Nanaimo and Vancouver is reported by the C.P.R. to have been exceptionally heavy, necessitating the operation of extra ferries to handle the business.

It is estimated that 1,600 took part in the annual water picnic of the Greater Vancouver Young People's Union to Newcastle Island.

Special rates were in effect on all Canadian Pacific and Black Ball steamers and many took advantage of them to enjoy long week-end vacations.

Additional night boats were necessary between here and the mainland to take care of travelers enjoying outings up to the last minute and returning to work this morning.

The E. and N. carried full train loads up-Island over the week-end and many came here from Duncan, Nanaimo, Courtenay, Port Alberni and other points.

Bus operators report one of the busiest holidays in years.

U.S. Contracts For 123 Vessels

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States maritime commission announced today the award of contracts for construction of 123 cargo vessels, eight shipways and other facilities in its long-range building program.

The ships, all of standard design, will cost approximately $312,000,000 and will be built at points on the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coasts. The ways and other facilities will cost about $6,000,000.

A $76,000,000 contract goes to the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Corporation for 30 cargo vessels of the C-3 type, to be built at Tacoma.

They are the largest (7,786 tons) and fastest (16½ knots) freighters authorized by the government commission.

Yacht Once Owned By Sopwith Sunk

LONDON (CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation said last night the British Admiralty has announced the sinking of His Majesty's yacht Beaver II, formerly owned by T. O. M. Sopwith, internationally known British sportsman.

The BBC said that before the war the Beaver II was "well known in yachting circles on both sides of the Atlantic."

Compensation for Sailors Higher

OTTAWA (CP)—Revision of compensation rates for sailors on Canadian ships who lost property through "war perils at sea," provide for higher compensation to men below the ranks of officers, wireless operators and chief stewards. The revisions are authorized by order-in-council published in the current issue of the Canada Gazette.

Provision first was made for such compensation in November, 1939, when the compensation to seamen (war damage to effects) regulations, 1939, were passed by order-in-council. The regulations apply to ships of Canadian registry or license.

The revisions raise from $50 to $70 compensation paid for loss of personal effect through war damage to victualling department waiters, bedroom stewards and similar pay ratings, boatswains, donkey-men, quartermasters and licensed pilots and apprentice pilots.

Increases from $40 to $70 are given ratings in victualling department of lower pay than bedroom stewards, seamen, greasers, firemen, trimmers and crew members other than masters, mates, or engineers on fishing boats, sailing vessels, pilot boats and lightships.

Carpenters and joiners will receive $170 compensation instead of $150 provided for in original regulations. Tools account for $100 of the sum. Oriental ratings not domiciled in Canada will receive $25 instead of $20.

Compensation paid to masters, certificated and uncertificated officers, chief stewards, wireless operators and engineers remains unchanged at the previous rates.

Local Speedboat Drivers Victors

Victoria speedboat drivers carried off two of the three feature cups in the annual regatta of the Vancouver Island Outboard Association held at Shawnigan Lake on Saturday afternoon.

The R. Angus Cup for C service runabouts was won by Dave Angus of Victoria while the Walter Adams Cup for F class hydroplanes went to Rollie Hibberd of this city. The City of Victoria Cup for Inboard was won by Lloyd Jett of Seattle.

The regatta drew a large crowd and the big thrill of the day was seen in the final race when Hibberd struck a sand bar and turned over. The local boy suffered no injury while the boat was slightly damaged.

Results of other races follow: Inboards, first heat—1, Lloyd Jett, Seattle; 2, Scott Stigun, Portland; 3, Irving Earle, Victoria; second heat, 1, W. J. Currell, Vancouver; 2, Irving Earle, and 3, Watson Smith, Victoria.

Yachtsmen Return From Saanichton

Members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club returned to Victoria last night after cruising to Saanichton Spit.

On the outward trip from Cadboro Bay Friday, the juniors spent the night at Darcy Island, sailing their stars, dinghies and snipes next day to Saanichton. The auxiliary cruisers and power boats made the trip direct. All reported a most enjoyable time, picnicking on the beach and singing rousing nautical songs before great bonfires.

The racing event for the Brentwood Cup did not materialize.

Strikes Spread In U.S. Plants

WASHINGTON (AP)—Workers at the Carborundum plant at Niagara Falls, N.Y., which manufactures products vital to United States defence industries, started a strike today, while at Detroit Packard motor car workers planned to file statutory five-day strike notice over a 10-cent hourly wage increase demand. Workers in both plants are members of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Union leaders said the Niagara Falls workers are striking for the right to be represented by their union in collective bargaining. The union is the United Mine Workers of the Chemical Division.

At Detroit, approximately 3,200 members of the United Automobile Workers-C.I.O. Packard local voted Sunday on the strike notice. A walkout at the Packard company would effect 9,500 employees, it was said, if defence work as well as regular auto production were halted.

Meanwhile the national defence mediation board, conceding it had failed to settle a wage dispute between the C.I.O.'s United Mine Workers and operators of southern soft coal mines, made ready to publish its recommendations.

The board has no statutory power to force the opposing sides to accept these, but John L. Lewis, U.M.W. president, agreed there would be no work stoppage until they were completed.

Young Visitor Seriously Hurt

Gordon Hinkman, eight years old, 110 Robins Street, Nanaimo, suffered serious head injuries and a possible fracture of the pelvic bone, and Mrs. George Brown, 1345 Stanley Avenue, Victoria, suffered slight head injuries when they were knocked down at Douglas and Fort Streets yesterday afternoon by a car driven by Thomas John Shea, 1614 Haultain Street, Victoria.

Shea was charged in City Police Court this morning with dangerous driving as the result of the accident and was remanded until tomorrow by Magistrate Henry Hall at the request of City Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison, who said he wished to learn the extent of injuries and the condition of the boy before proceeding with the case.

X-rays of the boy were taken today by Dr. H. V. Hughes at St. Joseph's Hospital. Hospital attendants reported he was resting comfortably and his condition was favorable.

According to city policemen, Constable Richard Perry, who reported the accident and Constables Harry Mercer and Douglas Buckle who attended the scene, the two pedestrians were crossing Douglas Street in the marked lane from the southeast corner to the southwest.

Shea was driving south on Douglas Street when he first struck Mrs. Brown, knocking her to the pavement. The car continued and hit young Hinkman, dragging him for a short distance and then the right wheel ran over his head.

The boy was rushed to hospital by Ted Bailey of the Gray Line Taxi Company.

Veil Custom Is Widespread Over the World

In many countries, women still wear veils—either all the time or once in a while. Even in our own country brides wear veils at church weddings.

A veil is a piece of cloth of one kind or another. Sometimes it is made of lace, but in Mohammedan countries the custom has been to make it of a more solid kind, of muslin cloth, for example.

Can you see the bride? She's getting married in Yugoslavia.

Veils are worn by brides in various countries of Europe, also in China, Burma, Iran and certain other lands of the Orient. In one section of Asia Minor a bride is expected to wear her veil not only on the wedding day but also for 40 days before the wedding takes place.

Among the old customs of southern Yugoslavia is one which calls for an extremely heavy veil for the bride, a veil covering her from the top of her head down to her ankles.

The Montenegrins of Yugoslavia tell a story of a mix-up which took place years ago. Two parties, each with a young woman, who was about to be married, met on a mountainside. The young women were heavily veiled and, when the parties rode away, they by accident exchanged places and were taken to different churches.

The bridegrooms, we are told, never had seen their brides before. The weddings took place, and the mistake was not found out until several days later.

The holy book of the Mohammedans is the Koran. It carries the rule that a married woman must not be seen without a veil by any man except her husband, her father or her brother.

That rule was followed well until modern times. Mohammedan wives used their veils whenever they went outside their homes.

Kemal Pasha, the late great ruler of the Turks, brought an end to the veil custom in Turkey. Soon after he took office, his wife walked before the public without a veil. That must have been shocking to the Turks in general, but later other Turkish women laid aside their veils.

The Turks were, and still are, mainly Mohammedans. People in other countries have followed their lead to some extent, but not to such a wide degree. While I was in Egypt a few years ago, I saw many women with well-covered faces.

HOROSCOPE

Good and evil appear balanced in the forecast for today. Communications with friends may be interrupted, and travel plans may have to be changed. Neptune dominates the zodiac and the seers warn against stubbornness and advise compromise. It is not a favorable day for romance.

Astrologers predict even more stirring times in the United States. Some of it may be due to danger to American shipping. War movements will be intense. There may be news of a Japanese move against the Philippines. Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of good fortune. Children born on this day will be diligent workers and will be ready at all times to help others.

GARDEN CITY

Garden City United Women's Association met last week at the home of Mrs. A. E. Ricalton, Burnside Road. Mrs. W. P. Brown presided. The secretarial report of Mrs. M. Raynor and the treasurer's report of Mrs. R. A. Scott were received with deep satisfaction, the latter showing that substantial grants had been made to the Lord Mayor's Fund and the general church funds. Arrangements were made for repeating the recent dramatic and patriotic program at Wilkinson Road United Church during the first week of June. The June meeting of the association will be held at the home of Mrs. R. A. Scott, Jasmine Avenue.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am the youngest child, a boy in a family of girls. Being delicate when I was young, I was kept in the house helping my sister cook, dust and wash dishes. Now at 19, I am big and strong and healthy, but I am a sissy. I never had a boy friend. My mother has always kept me at home, never permitting me to go with other boys, or do as other boys did, and now when I am with other boys I am confused and awkward. I rebel at being made to stay in the house with my sisters, helping mother. I want to be a man. What must I do to be a regular fellow? JOHN H.

Answer—Misguided mother love never does a more cruel thing than when it ties blue ribbons on a boy's curls and makes him play nice, refined, improving games in the parlor, instead of taking his chances on the back lot with a lot of rude, rough boys who might muss up his clean clothes and give him a bloody nose.

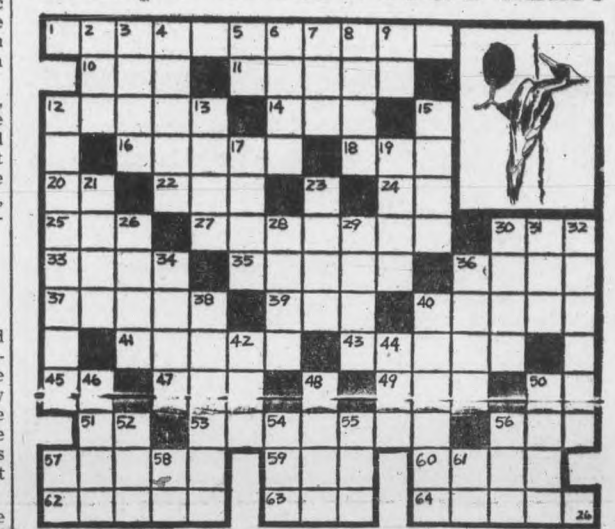

Of course, mother is trying to protect her precious darling and prevent him from hearing the things he should not hear and knowing the things he should not know and keep him unspotted from the world.

She forgets that she can't always keep him tied to her apron strings; that he has to live in a world that is full of a number of things besides pasting pictures in albums and listening to sweet little bedtime stories over the radio; that the more a boy knows of the world the less danger he has of falling into its pitfalls, and that the better he has learned to stand up for himself and fight his own battles, the more likely he is to win out.

In your case the mischief has been done, and the best way to undo it is to get your mother to send you off to school. You will find it easier to adjust yourself to strange boys than to boys you already know. If she cannot afford to do this, get yourself a job and go to work. If you show yourself competent and that you can do a man's work, your fellow employees will respect you.

DOROTHY DIX.

Torch of Freedom Dedicated Before Long Journey

Premier T. D. Pattullo is shown handing the Torch of Freedom into the care of Sub-Lieut. J. D. MacRae, R.C.N.V.R., Lieut. C. W. Stanbury, R.C.A., and Flying Officer A. M. Yule, R.C.A.F., the guard of honor at the dedication ceremony at Thunderbird Park. In the background can be seen Mayor Andrew McGavin, left, and Bishop H. E. Sexton, standing behind the CBC microphone.

"May God speed this symbolic torch to its destination. May it carry the light of love, the breath of inspiration and the strength of unswerving resolution to the people of the Motherland and all associated with her in the task of the preservation of the freedom of mankind."

With these words, Premier T. D. Pattullo dedicated on Empire Day the "Torch of Freedom," being flown across Canada and to England to be presented to Prime Minister Winston Churchill as a symbol of Canada's all-out war effort.

CHEER FOR BRITAIN

The dedication ceremony took place in Thunderbird Park, officially opened immediately after the torch had been started on its long trip to Britain. Several hundred persons thronged the streets and sidewalks around the park for the occasion.

Mayor Andrew McGavin, opening the ceremony, declared that to some the dedication of the torch might not seem of much importance.

"But if it helps to make the people of Canada more aware to their responsibilities and more alive to the necessity of putting every ounce of effort behind our national government," he said, "it will be well worth while."

"The people of Britain will be cheered by the knowledge that all Canadians from the Pacific to the Atlantic are digging down to supply the sinews of war and will keep on digging until victory is ours."

Following the remarks of the mayor, the band of the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade under Bandmaster G. E. Bower played "Onward Christian Soldiers" and Bishop H. E. Sexton read the prayer for victory in which the torch was solemnly dedicated.

Premier Pattullo declared in his address that it was fitting that the torch, being dedicated as part of the program in connection with the Victory Loan 1941, should begin its journey from Victoria.

"Our hearts go out to the people of Great Britain in every walk of life for their splendid courage in this time of trial," the Premier said. "Upon them has been raised, incessantly but in vain, all the made fury and baffled hate of the powers of evil, but Britain is carrying on with undiminished cheerfulness and unshaken determination, and with a patience and fortitude not excelled in world history."

Canadians were fortunate to be living in a land of plenty, Mr. Pattullo said.

"But we must remember," he continued, "that from those to whom much is given, much shall be expected, and we must go on unflinchingly and unceasingly to victory."

SENTIMENTS OF CANADA

The torch, Mr. Pattullo said, expressed in its inscription the sentiments of the people of Canada: "Part of the Tools: Canada's Victory Loan 1941."

"This torch," he said, "carries with it our unrelenting determination that never shall we flag in this conflict, but shall push on with increasing purpose to a successful and lasting conclusion."

"To the gallant officer of the Royal Canadian Air Force to whose care we commit this torch, and to his associates, we express our gratitude, and we pray that Divine Providence may bless their activities."

While the band played national airs, the Premier, Bishop Sexton and Mayor McGavin signed the illuminated parchment scroll which is proceeding to England with the torch. The parchment and torch then were given into the care of a guard of honor comprising an officer each from the three services: Sub-Lieut. J. D. MacRae, R.C.N.V.R., Lieut. C. W. Stanbury, R.C.A., and Flying Officer A. M. Yule, R.C.A.F.

The torch was carried to a military truck by two policemen to be taken to Patricia Bay airport and flown to Vancouver aboard a Hudson bomber for a similar dedication ceremony in that city.

The proceedings in Thunderbird Park were broadcast over the Canadian network under the supervision of William Herbert of Radio Station CBR. Throughout the ceremony, motion picture cameras were trained on the speakers, the guard of honor, the band and the crowd of spectators. Crew members of the plane which flew the torch to Vancouver were Squadron Leader D. E. Galloway, Pilot Officer C. M. Black, Wireless Operator Cpl. K.N. Brownell, and Air Engineer Mechanic Cpl. G. J. Newton, all members of the Western Air Command.

VANCOUVER CEREMONY

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force bomber yesterday roared away from Vancouver's airport bearing to Alberta Canada's victory torch.

On Saturday it was dedicated here by Bishop Sir Francis Heathcote of New Westminster, in an impressive ceremony in front of the City Hall and at ceremonies in three adjoining municipalities.

Hundreds watched the ceremony in which detachments of the militia and representatives of the army, navy and air force stood by. Later, hundreds more watched while the four-foot torch was carried through the streets accompanied by an honor guard representing the three armed services.

In providing the park, Mr. Pattullo said, the government had been activated by several motives.

"It has taken steps to preserve these specimens of a dying art for the delectation of posterity," he said. "It believes that in placing them here, each with its brief description, it may turn attention to many of the facts and phases connected with the life and customs of the Coast Indian which otherwise might be lost. It hopes that it will stimulate interest of the young people of this province into making themselves familiar with the story of our native races."

"They will find it a fascinating study," the Premier continued, "a study which perhaps will give them a different impression of those unobtrusive people who live and move so quietly in our midst, but who in their native state showed an adaptability, an ingenuity in converting and applying the provisions of nature, which cannot fail to excite the student's admiration and respect."

Following the Premier's address, children of the Can-oss-seez Skay-loo Drama Club of the Inkameep Indian Reserve at Oliver presented three short plays in the park, wearing masks and buckskin costumes made by themselves. The plays, it was explained, had been written around local Okanagan legends by Okanagan people. Anthony Walsh, teacher at the Inkameep Reserve, directed the presentation. The children taking part were Frank Stalka, Raymond Baptiste, Edith Kruger, Bertha Baptiste, Irene Baptiste and Gertrude Baptiste, ranging in age from nine to 13 years.

Mr. Walsh was introduced by the provincial director of school and community drama, Major L. Bullock-Webster, who stated that the Okanagan teacher had done much to make the drama of the Indians widely known in the United States and Canada.

Nine members of the V.P.R.H.C. enjoyed the enchantment of the great out-of-doors on Friday afternoon when they hiked to Spoon Bay. This was the fifth hike of a series scheduled for the summer season. The weather was ideal for sun bathing, swimming and beach picnicking.

A demonstration in the art of kindling beach fires was given by one of the active members.

CROWDS APPLAUD NEW PIPE BAND

Hundreds gathered on Blanchard Street between Yates and Johnson Streets Saturday night for the street carnival and dance, with a warm night like midsummer ideal for the holiday party. A children's fancy dress and pet parade was held before the dance and was featured by the debut of a new girls' pipe band, Miss Nellie Small's Highland band.

Resplendent in smart Scotch uniform, the young pipers and drummers drew rounds of applause along the route and at the request of Alderman W. H. Davies, chairman of the celebrations committee, mounted the bandstand to play more numbers. The band followed its debut by appearing at the York Theatre cheer-up concert Sunday evening, where it was cheered by a packed house.

The Victoria Boys' Band also played for the street carnival and parade.

The Fifth Regiment Band wound up a busy day by leading the parade down town and then proceeding to Parliament Square, where crowds gathered for a treat.

TWO UNITS HERE TO MOBILIZE

The 4th Divisional Ammunition Column, R.C.A.S.C., will be formed from the 6th (Reserve) Divisional Supply Column in Military District No. 11, to take a place in the active force of the Dominion, according to an announcement made today by the National Defence Department in Ottawa.

In addition, a new formation will be drawn up in Victoria to be known as the 12th Field Ambulance, R.C.A.M.C., which also will go on active service.

The Defence Department announcement said a complete infantry battalion, Les Voltigeurs de Quebec, one complete reconnaissance battalion and a number of field artillery batteries, field companies of engineers, supply, ordnance and medical units were to be mobilized immediately for the active army.

The reconnaissance battalion being mobilized is the 18th Manitoba Battalion.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c

Digestion — The Great Process of Life

Acute indigestion may arise from over-eating or the use of food which is difficult to digest. But chronic indigestion, which stays with you, causing sleepless nights, headaches, bodily pains and depressed spirits, is usually the result of torpid liver and constipation. The process of digestion is held up and the body is poisoned by accumulated waste matter. The use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills helps to arouse the torpid liver to action, the bile flows freely to the intestines, stimulating these organs and soon everything is going fine. What a pleasure it is to enjoy your meals and feel that there will be no discomfort afterwards.

Indian Legends Dramatized as Park Opened

Victoria's new outdoor museum of Indian work, Thunderbird Park, was officially opened on Empire Day by Mayor Andrew McGavin and Premier T. D. Pattullo. Hundreds of spectators, who had just witnessed the dedication of the Torch of Freedom being sent to Prime Minister Churchill, attended the opening of the park.

"I would like to congratulate the provincial government for its enterprise in laying out this little corner to preserve the history, legends and traditions of an ancient race," Mayor McGavin said in a brief address. "These totem poles on display portray religious beliefs and historical records of the Indian people, and it is our duty to safeguard these symbols of Indian life and legend. This park should be a place of great interest and has certainly been laid out in a beautiful and artistic manner, and reflects great credit on those responsible."

Premier Pattullo said the provincial government felt it had made a valuable contribution towards the perpetuation of native art in providing Victoria with the park, and one which would appeal to many thousands of visitors to the island.

"With a proper sense of fitness," he declared, "they have been erected on what was, in the city's early days, a popular Indian camping place, and arranged, as you see, so as to be easily and freely accessible."

"The museum has been named Thunderbird Park, in recognition of one of the most prevalent of the Indian legends, the Thunderbird being a monstrous creature which caused thunder by rustling its pinions and lightning by blinking its eyes, a creature so huge that it was capable of seizing a whale in its talons and bearing it off."
